Sheraton Beauty

In Mahogany.

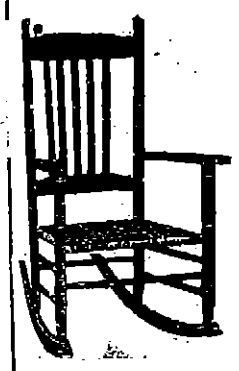

The Eighteenth Century qualities of Thomas Sheraton's wondrous skill as applied to grace and exquisite workmanship in furniture have rarely been more effectively shown than in the Mahogany Desk illustrated. No emphasis need be laid upon its fitness for the modern home because even a glance reveals the superiority of the craftsman's artistic and carefully thought-out plan. Furniture designing reaches a high level of effectiveness in the Sheraton ideals which prevailed during

The Period of 1760 to 1820.

The "Color Poet," as he was known, strove for homelike, livable characteristics in his furniture and that is why this 40-inch high desk with its beautiful satin wood inlaying is so desirable for country or seashore houses.

Ordinarily you would expect that only at a very considerable outlay of money could you be the proud owner of a piece like this, but the Titus methods of buying and selling are not "ordinary"—hence we can quote the surprisingly low price of $20.25 for the desk.

A MAGNIFICENT FLIGHT FROM PISA.

Beaumont Reaches Rome, the End of Second Stage.

Frenchman Wins Prize of $20,000 in Race of About 160 Miles.

ROME, Italy, May 31.—Andre Beaumont, the French aviator, arrived here at 3:55 o'clock this afternoon. He was the first contestant in the big Paris-Rome-Turin aviation flight to reach the Rome-Turin aviation flight to reach the Italian capital, the end of the second stage of the big race. His magnificent flight from Pisa, a distance of about 160 miles, made him the winner of a $20,000 prize.

ACCIDENTS MAR FLIGHT.

Competitors in Nice-to-Rome Stage Meet With Mishaps.

PISA, Italy, May 31.—Accidents of a more serious nature than any which have occurred since the flight was begun marked the Nice-to-Rome stage of the 1,300 mile Paris-Rome-Turin aviation contest. Three of the competitors, the Frenchmen, Garros and Beaumont, and the German, Frey, all met with mishaps today, which damaged their machines, and Frey himself was slightly injured.

Roland Garros, who is being hailed as the victor of the long flight, left Cascine Di San Rossore, the estate of King Victor Emmanuel, before sunrise today, bound for the Italian capital, to the accompaniment of a deafening roar of cheers from thousands of enthusiastic spectators who had waited all night to witness his departure. The aviator flew away at a tremendous speed, but after covering a few miles his monoplane suddenly fell to the ground and was wrecked. Garros, however, was not hurt, and he hurried back to Pisa to await the arrival of a new aeroplane with which to resume his flight.

Beaumont and Frey, who left Genoa this morning for Rome, both mistook the race course here, which was decorated with flags for the aerodrome at Caseine Di San Rossore, and landed heavily. Their machine turned somersaults and were badly damaged. Frey dressed a slight wound and all three aviators are now working desperately to get their machines into shape to resume the flight. The airmen met with a cordial reception on arriving here.

Beaumont repaired his aeroplane and left Pisa in the direction of Rome, at five minutes to one this afternoon. Garros, on hearing of the departure of his rival, said: "There is many a slip between the cup and the lip." Garros expects to follow Beaumont within a short time.

ANXIOUS TO RE-GAIN LEAD.

Aviator Beaumont Given an Ovation on His Arrival at Genoa.

GENOA, May 31.—Beaumont, the aviator, made a sunrise start from Alassio today, with the intention of regaining the lead in the Paris-Turin race. He arrived at Genoa at 6:47 after a 60-mile flight and left an hour later for Pisa. His welcome here was an ovation.

They spent the night in Genoa and made a fine start for Pisa at 5 o'clock this morning. He hoped to reach Pisa, nearly 90 miles away, almost as soon as Garros could get under way, and was confident that he would take the lead in the race before he arrived at Rome.

GARROS UNHURT.

French Aviator Falls and Wrecks Monoplane in Italy.

CIVITA VECCHIA, Italy, May 31.—Roland Garros, the French aviator who left Pisa early today on his flight from Paris to Turin, fell and wrecked his aeroplane a few miles from this city at 6 o'clock this morning. Garros was unhurt. Garros's monoplane, distinguished by the huge figure "18," was sighted from this city shortly before 6 o'clock flying at a tremendous speed in a direct line for Rome, 40 miles away. A moment later something apparently went wrong and the machine dived downward. The members of the Civita Vecchia committee and thousands of spectators rushed to the spot and found the machine lying on its back, Garros, unhurt, surveying the wreck. How serious the damage is, has not yet been determined.

WHEAT "DEAL" DEPLORED.

Nearly 15,000,000 Bushels Bought by Leaders for the May Delivery.

CHICAGO, May 31.—The leaders of the present May wheat deal have, it is said, bought between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 bushels of wheat for May delivery, and it is not believed that this amount can be turned over by tonight, although during the last few days heroic efforts have been made to get the whet here. The bull leaders insist on the delivery of every bushel they have purchased.

Officials of the Board of Trade are somewhat exercised and deplore the "deal" as it is against the rules of the institution, and some rather drastic investigations may follow the wind up of the latest sensation of the speculative grain trade. The directors have been carrying on an investigation for the last fortnight, and the result of their findings probably will not be made public for several days. No attempt at protection of the cash wheat market was made by the owners of the May delivery wheat Monday. Advantage was taken of technicalities by leaving the cash wheat of contract grade to find such market as it could, if it can be transferred to the regular public elevators today, before the close of business, it will be accepted at May price, otherwise it will go at current cash prices or on the basis of July delivery.

It thus transpired that contract grade wheat sold at 92 cents at the close of business Monday, in car lots less than ten feet away from the pit where May delivery was bringing $1.03.

RECEIVED SHARE OF FIRM'S FEE.

Wickersham "Advised" the Steel Corporation.

Attorney General Promises Sweeping Criminal Prosecutions.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Standard Oil and American Tobacco Company cases will result in a sweeping attempt to secure criminal conviction of violators of the anti-trust law, according to Attorney General Wickersham, who appeared today before the House committee on expenditures in the Department of Justice.

Attorney General Wickersham testified that he had "advised" the United States Steel Corporation on several occasions from 1905 to 1909, during his connection with the firm of Strong & Cadwalader, and also that he had received his share of the fee turned into the firm for services to the American Sugar Refining Company, personally attended to by Henry W. Taft, brother of the President. Mr. Wickersham said his share was about $26,000.

Mr. Wickersham was questioned chiefly by Representative Beal of Texas, chairman of the committee, concerning the sale by the government of friar lands in the Philippines to the American Sugar Refining Company. He said Henry W. Taft at one time appeared as a special attorney for the government against the "licorice trust", a part of the American Tobacco Company.

Mr. Wickersham declared that after he became Attorney General John Henry Hammond represented Strong & Cadwallader as counsel for the so-called sugar trust in the purchase of the friar lands. He added that at the time he gave his opinion permitting the sale of these lands he did not know that Hammond represented the president of the American Sugar Refining Company, Mr. Havemeyer.

When asked about the connection of the firm with Steel affairs, Mr. Wickersham said: "I personally have advised the United States Steel Corporation in one or two matters."

"Did Strong & Cadwallader ever represent the New York Cotton Exchange," asked Chairman Beal.

"Yes. Henry W. Taft was counsel for the Exchange." Mr. Wickersham replied, "and I think he still continues in that capacity."

The chairman sought particularly to learn from the Attorney General whether the Department of Justice and the Treasury Department accepted a $2,000,000 settlement from the American Sugar Refining Company as restitution for under-valuation at the port of New York rather than enforce the severe penalty provided by law. Mr. Wickersham replied that the department felt that the evidence was not sufficient to support the claim for penalties, though it was his belief that restitution was made because the corporation feared penalties would be imposed.

"Then it was your judgment," suggested Mr. Beal, "that, notwithstanding the fact that the government had access to a memorandum book showing the real weights of sugar imported and to books showing fraudulent weights if the government had attempted to collect the penalties there was strong probability of failure."

"Yes," Mr. Wickersham answered. "It was sufficiently dubious to make it inexpedient to go on. I think the $2,000,000 settlement was the best possible arrangement."

The Attorney General denied that there was any agreement preventing criminal prosecution. "That right," he said, "was specifically reserved to the government."

SUNDAY BALL GAMES.

General Public to be Forbidden at Those at Fort Banks, Near Boston.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—For the first time in its history the War Department has yielded a step to popular protest against Sunday base ball playing, by forbidding the admission of the general public to such games at Fort Banks, near Boston. The attendance will be restricted to the families and friends of the soldier. General Wood, chief of staff of the army, has just returned from Massachusetts, where he investigated the situation. Sunday base ball is prohibited by law in Massachusetts and the people of Winthrop, where Fort Banks is situated, complained.

While the department maintains that the state prohibitory law is not applicable to the national reservation, it is willing to meet the protest by excluding the general public. Both the War and Navy Departments heretofore have declined to place any restrictions upon Sunday base ball playing.

RAIN HINDERS GAME.

International Match on Meadow Brook Club Grounds Postponed.

NEW YORK, May 31.—It was announced from the offices of the Polo Association shortly after noon today that the international match on the grounds of the Meadow Brook Club had been postponed, because of rain and a slippery field until 4:30 p. m. tomorrow.

WELL QUALIFIED FOR PLACE.

Stephen O'Meara of Boston Re-Appointed Police Commissioner.

BOSTON, May 31.—Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara of this city was re-appointed for a term of five years by Governor Foss this afternoon. Under the law the appointment lies before the governor's council for a week. The re-appointment of Commissioner O'Meara, who is a Republican, has been fought hard by many Democratic leaders headed by Mayor John F. Fitzgerald. Governor Foss has answered all objections by stating that Commissioner O'Meara has administered his office well and that no one so well qualified has been put forward. Commissioner O'Meara was a newspaper man in Boston for many years. The police commissionership is the only public office he has held.

SUN STAR WINS THE GREAT DERBY.

Steadfast Second, Royal Tender Third, at Epsom Downs.

Alfred Vanderbilt Attends Races With a Party on the Venture.

EPSOM DOWNS, England, May 31.—England's blue ribbon turf fixture, the Epsom Derby of $32,500, for three-year-olds, distance about one mile and a half, was won today by J. B. Joel's Sun Star, the favorite. Lord Derby's Steadfast was second, and Royal Tender third. Twenty-six horses started.

Sun Star, the winner, is a brown colt by Sun Bridge, out of Dorris. He won the 2,000 guinea stakes at Newmarket April 26 last, and has been a steady favorite at 7 to 4 in the betting. Phryxus finished fourth.

Harry Payne Whitney's All Gold and Louis Winan's Adam Bede, the only two American horses to start, were unplaced. Two lengths separated the Joel colt from Lord Derby's Steadfast at the winning post.

The presence of King George and Queen Mary tended to make the Coronation derby a record one. The famous downs were crowded from early morning with tens of thousands of race goers. Many Americans were present. Much American money was placed on Adam Bede, John Madden's colt, which ran under the colors of Louis Winans, and Leopold De Rothschild's Pietri, which was ridden by Danny Maher, the American jockey.

King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by other members of the Royal family, arrived on an early train from London. With them were a number of the Royal visitors from other courts and many of the lords and ladies of the court's household. A vast assemblage came from London and from all parts of the kingdom the stream of traffic by rail and by the highways bringing the coaching parties was as great as the most notable Derby days ever saw. It was a cosmopolitan throng of merrymakers, reflecting all stations of life.

The derby entries this year numbered 29, although several of them were withdrawn before the start. Four American horses figured in the first list of entries, namely, All Gold, owned by H. Payne Whitney, Adam Bede, bearing the colors of Louis Winans, and the two cracks from James R. Keene's stables, Iron Mask II. and Runnymede. Two French horses also were entered, the balance being the pick of English three-year-olds.

The Joel colt, Sun Star, had ruled as a strong favorite throughout the early betting at about 7 to 4, with King William at 15 to 2 and Pietri, Colline, Stedfast and others at varying odds, the Canadian entry Kel D'Or bringing up the rear at 1,000 to 1. The Whitney and Winans entries have figured in the betting at about 40 to 1.

The arrival of the Royal party was the signal for a great ovation, which swept over the paddock and course. Everybody agreed that the crowd was a record one and the betting on the derby and other races of the day was on an unprecedented scale. Among the Americans who came to the course by road was Alfred G. Vanderbilt, who brought a party of friends on the coach Venture.

The 26 starters were sent off in a bunch. Bannockburn soon jumped to the front with the Canadian horse, Kel D'Or, and Eton Boy close up. Rounding Tattenham corner Stern, the French jockey, brought the favorite Sun Star through to the rail and drawing away, won in the easiest fashion by two lengths. Four lengths separated the second and third horses.

Sun Star's time was 2 minutes 36 4-5 seconds, one and 3-5 seconds slower than the record made over the derby course last year by Fairie's Lemberg.

TOBACCO TRUST TO BE DISSOLVED.

Corporations and Individuals Restrain Trade.

Supreme Court Re-Affirms the "Rule of Reason."

WASHINGTON, May 29.—The 65 American companies, two English corporations and 29 "captains of industry" prosecuted by the government in the famous Tobacco Trust cases were declared today in a decision of the United States Supreme Court to be engaged in an unlawful conspiracy to monopolize the tobacco business, to the injury of the public and of its competitors. The court directs that the combination be forbidden to engage in inter-state commerce, or that it be placed in the hands of a receiver unless it disintegrates and is re-created in harmony with the law within six or at the most eight months.

The decree is looked upon as even more drastic than the one rendered in the Standard Oil case, and Attorney General Wickersham declares that it is a "most sweeping and comprehensive victory" for the government.

Both the first and second sections of the Sherman anti-trust law have been violated, according to the court, in the wrongful and unlawful restraint of interstate and foreign commerce.

The opinion of the court was announced by Chief Justice White, who also delivered the opinion of the court in the Standard Oil case. The entire court agreed that the tobacco combination violated the Sherman anti-trust law, but Associate Justice Harlan dissented from the repeated interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law so as to call for the application of the "rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade were forbidden by the act. In this respect the division of the court was the same as in the Standard Oil case.

Justice Harlan also took issue with the rest of the court as to the re-organization of the tobacco company, saying that he found nothing in the record which made him "at all anxious to perpetuate any new combination among these companies, which the court concedes at all times exhibited a conscious wrong-doing."

While the decree was regarded as unusually severe, at the same time there was leniency in its not making the combination an outlaw "now." The various elements of the combination are to have an opportunity, under the supervision of the United States circuit court for the Southern district of New York of re-creating it so there may be brought about "a new condition which shall be honestly in harmony with and not repugnant to the law."

The court reiterated strongly its determination to follow "the rule of reason" in determining what restraints of trade violate the Sherman anti-trust law.

Chief Justice White explained at length the decision of the court in the Standard Oil case, but did not qualify the logic in that case so as to make it harmonize in any particular with the dissenting views expressed in that case by Associate Justice Harlan and other critics of the decision.

It is regarded as settled that the "rule of reason" will prevail in the courts of the land in interpretation of the Sherman anti-trust law until at least the personnel of the Supreme Court greatly changes or the Sherman anti-trust law is amended.

In reality, the decision was nothing less than a deliberate exemplification of the application of the "rule of reason" to "undisputed facts." From the date of the organization of the first combination, the court found that there was a purpose to acquire dominion and control of the tobacco trade, not by the mere exertion of the ordinary right to contract and to trade, but by methods devised to monopolize the trade by driving competitors out of business.

On practically every point on which the government appealed from the decision of the lower court it scored a victory today. In the first place, James B. Duke and the 28 other individual defendants were held to be parties to the unlawful combinations instead of being freed from further responsibility in the case as directed by the court below.

Instead of dismissing the bill as to the Imperial Tobacco Company, the "so-called" British company, and as to the American-British Tobacco Company, created by the two parent tobacco "trusts," these two corporations were held to be co-operators in the unlawful combination. So, too, was the United Cigar Stores Company, a retail organization with stores throughout the country.

Unlike the Standard Oil Company which took no steps today for a hearing, William R. Perkins, of counsel for the American Tobacco Company asked the court leave to present a petition and a stay of issuance of the mandate for 30 days. The request was granted. Shortly afterward the court adjourned until next October.

WIRELESS MEN SENTENCED.

Wilson and Others Charged With Attempt to Bribe Jury.

NEW YORK, May 30.—Christopher Columbus Wilson, president of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, and his four associates, are in the Tombs, under prison sentences. Bail is denied, the promoters having been charged, after their conviction yesterday afternoon on four counts alleging mis-use of the United States mail in soliciting stock subscriptions, of having attempted to bribe the jury. The sentences imposed include, besides prison terms, the costs of the trial, which amount to more than $50,000.

As soon as the jury announced its verdict, the following penalties were awarded by Judge Martin: C. C. Wilson, three years in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta; George H. Parker and F. B. Buller, two years each in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta; W. A. Diboll and W. W. Tompkins, one year each in some New York penitentiary.

Samuel S. Bogart, vice president of the company, who pleaded guilty to fraudulent use of the mails in advance of his five associates, was fined $2,500. He will pay and go free, Judge Martin, in imposing this sentence, explained his leniency. Bogart he said was a man, who because of his skill in telegraphy, had been "roped in," to use the common phrase. He had not shaped the swindle for which the others had been sentenced, nor had he hindered the government in its efforts to obtain evidence. On the contrary, he had done all in his power to turn over the 38 books of the company, spirited away in the interest of the other defendants. Until his fine is paid, Bogart is paroled in the custody of his counsel.

After a sensational charge by United States District Attorney Henry Wise, that one of the jurors was approached last Sunday night in the interests of the defendants with an offer of a bribe "even if it ran into five figures," and the district attorney's characterization of the other convicted men as "desperate prisoners who would flee the jurisdiction of the court if admitted to bail," Judge Martin refused to admit any of them to bail. He committed the five men to the Tombs under a 10 days stay of sentence so that they might, if they desire, carry the case to the circuit court of appeals.

In summing up the case at the conclusion of a five weeks trial the district attorney said it had been shown that "Wilson netted $900,000 from the sale of 76,000 shares of stock, but in all $1,600,000 went into his own pocket." Subtracting also the profits which his associates were accused of pocketing only $700,000 out of the receipts of $3,000,000 by the United Wireless Company in three years went into the treasury of the company.

FOR ARBITRATION TREATY.

Germany Willing to Enter Into Negotiations With This Country.

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Germany today expressed her willingness to enter into negotiations with the United States for a general arbitration treaty along the lines laid down by Secretary of State Knox, in the tentative draft of this government's proposal now in the hands of Great Britain and France. Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador at Washington, conveyed this information to Secretary Knox and asked for a copy of the basic proposition of the United States.

LIVING FOR OTHERS.

[Christian Herald.]

The only thing worth while in life is service to others, a life that will brighten and lift up all it touches. Any trial, any hardship, any victory over difficulties that can give the sweetness and strength for such a life of cheer and helpfulness is a wonderful blessing. When some brother or sister who is passing through the "valley of the shadow" reaches out an appealing hand to you for help, it's worth while to be able to give that help. The burden and the pain in all walks of life give glorious opportunities to the strengthened, purified, valiant soul.

He who came into a sinful and suffering world with miracles of love and helping was a "Man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." He uttered his most inspiring message when he said, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also, and greater works than these shall he do." Certainly he spake not to cringing, doubting, selfish, or ease-loving men. His promise, his wonderful legacy, was for those who are willing to gain through pain and struggle his meek and kingly spirit. Is there any more wonderful blessing in all human life than such a legacy and the experiences which fit a man or woman to claim it?

bound to hit him and two doubles, a hit batter, a base on balls, a sacrifice fly and a wild throw gave them three runs and the lead.

Then in the first half of the ninth the Young Men's Christian Association batters surprised those who did not know that Jones was also pitching on a bluff by scoring twice on three singles and a sacrifice. In the last half Donovan showed some of his old cunning. It was the last inning and he let out everything he had. The soldiers were too anxious and were easy victims.

The Young Men's Christian Association appeared in their new uniforms, which also looked neat. They are of brownish shade with red trimmings and they, like the Tabs, celebrated their new uniforms by a victory. The score:

The second game was the event, however. The sailors went after Sheehan's benders right at the start, batting in two runs in the first on a single and two doubles after two were out. In the third, after two were out, three singles, a hit batter and some wild throwing gave them three runs and a lead of 5 to 1, which looked big, the way Hines was fooling them, but the game was not over. The Trojans annexed another in the last half of the third, on two passes, a hit batted ball and an out. Hines was beginning to "blow up" and Sheehan, was tightening up, striking out two each in the fourth and fifth.

The real balloon ascension took place in the last half of the fourth and Hines was at the throttle, he should have been taken out earlier. He passed four men, forcing one run. With the bases full and two out Dick Coffey was called in. He was not allowed to do any practice throwing and West drove one safe to left, two runs coming in and the third following a poor return of the ball. The Trojans were ahead, 6 to 5.

In the seventh they allowed the Station to even up by some wild throwing, after themselves spoiling a chance by reckless running in the sixth. With Coffey pitching good ball and Sheehan having the hoodoo on the Station team, it looked like a tie game.

It was a tie when the Trojans came to bat in the last half of the ninth. O'Connell led off with a safe one. West bunted too hard and O'Connell was forced at second. West stole second and third. Martin was too anxious to break the ball and struck out. Carr was equal to the emergency and dropped one behind third, for which short, third and left field went, with the usual result, the ball dropped safe between them, West was across the plate with the winning run and the game was over.

The playing was erratic but there were good exhibitions at times and

LESSONS OF THE DAY.

Veterans and Citizens Have Foes to Fight Now as During the War.

Memorial Day Oration by Herbert W. Lull Full of Suggestive Thoughts.

The Memorial Day oration, delivered by Mr. Herbert W. Lull, superintendent of public schools, at the exercises in the First Presbyterian Church, was as follows:

When Nature wakes from her winter sleep, when grass, bud and blossom beautify the fields, when birds sing their sweetest, and the sun warms us to the heart, then come May and Memorial Day—a time of joy and sorrow, the brightest and yet the saddest day of all the year. Then come back from the spirit land fathers and husbands, sons and brothers. Then in imagination they occupy their old places by the fireside, they take their customary seats at the table, and fleeting time is forgotten; but soon, too soon, the stern realities of life arouse the dreamers from their reveries to their daily duties and responsibilities.

On our calendar with the days of blessed memories—with Independence Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and the February holidays, now stands Memorial Day—that sacred time, not only for honoring the soldier dead, but for pledging ourselves anew to those fundamental principles on which our forefathers based this Union. It is, indeed, a day of reflection as well as of eulogy, a day when we offer our praise and thanks to those whom Fortune sent home carrying their shields with flying flags and martial tread, and also to those whom she sent home upon their shields with muffled drums and arms reversed. Today we greet the living and the dead; today we acknowledge our debt to both.

Directly before this church is a symbol of the day, of these men of the Grand Army, and of that patriotism which has never failed the world since time began. Within the sacred triangle of green stands a granite pedestal. On it behold the soldier and the sailor—types of army and navy, heroic in stature, alert, intent, trained, prepared—even as you men of the Lawton-Warren Post and your companions were in 61. Above the monument and the cannon floats the old flag, typifying all of the blessings that man is heir to in this "nation one and indivisible."

This little triangle is and ever will be a lesson to us and to our children's children—a lesson of sacrifice, of devotion, of the awful and yet glorious cost of this land which is the hope of all the world and to which with eyes of faith all the ages have looked forward.

For 20 years that soldier has stood intent, that sailor has knelt with steady aim. For 20 years soldier and sailor with watchful eyes and straining ears have awaited the enemy. There they are in lasting bronze, types of you veterans who 50 years ago made your selves immortal.

Doubtless the soldier and the sailor facing the southland have already left me only your bodies. I shall not be surprised or hurt if your minds and hearts are even now far away 'mid other times and places. Backward today turn all our thoughts. In imagination we unravel the web of time—back, back to that spring day when on the far southern horizon arose a puff of smoke, and the boom of that distant cannon went reverberating from the hills of New England to the far West. The plow was left in the furrow, the hammer on the anvil, the pitcher at the fountain, and thousands of volunteers jumped to arms to avenge the fall of Sumter.

Although a boy of only eight years, I can see vividly the mad rush, on that April day, of the old militia company of my home town. As they hurry afield may I ask you veterans also to don once more your uniforms of faded blue, to strap on your old knapsack, to shoulder your rifle, and in imagination to march again to the beat of the drum.

Not far away in the great encampment where in mimic warfare you first learn the duties of the soldier. Soon the day arrives when you bid farewell to home and friends and hasten southward. Now comes a moving picture film not measured by feet but by years. Of the thousands of pictures of flood and field recall with me for a moment a few typical scenes:

On the anniversary of Lexington is heard in Baltimore the tramp of New England feet wet with New England blood—ever first to flow for a righteous cause. Perhaps some of you fresh from the redemption of West Virginia feel the panic of Bull Run—a misfortune that brings good fortune, for it awakes and solidifies the wavering. Then comes the effacement of this momentary defeat by the victories of Forts Henry and Donelson.

Meantime the navy with an excess of zeal takes from a British vessel two Southern commissioners, but the mistake is atoned for by a victory that revolutionizes the naval warfare of the world. Let us sing the praises of the mighty Monitor and that pigmy struggle with the giant Merrimac. Then Hampton Roads re-echoes with the cheers of a grateful people.

A month later on a Sunday morning, while we at home are answering the call of the church bells and in peaceful quiet are praying for you at the front, you are rushing from your tents to the woods of Shiloh to repel the sudden onslaught of the foe. Aye, that is anything but God's day of peace and quiet! Well you stand your ground, and dearly the enemy pay the cost by the loss of their commander, Johnston.

Here's a picture of Farragut as he runs the gauntlet of shot and shell at New Orleans, and still another of a

Newport Historical Society Meets on Anniversary of Election.

President Tompkins Pays Tribute to Services of the Late Librarian, R. Hammett Tilley.

The Newport Historical Society held its annual meeting Monday evening, the date having been changed from March 18 to the last Tuesday in May, the latter date having been selected because it suits better the convenience of the members and also serves to commemorate the anniversary of Election day.

President Hamilton B. Tompkins presided and Miss Austin Stevens was elected an active member and William Arthur Wing and Miss Mary S. Hazard associate members.

An invitation to the society to participate in the celebration of Founders' Day by the Rhode Island Citizens' Historical Society, Friday, June 9, the two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the city of Providence, in Providence, was accepted and the society will be represented.

The president read his annual report, in which he said the following tribute to the services of Mr. R. Hammett Tilley, the late librarian:

"Mr. Tilley's untiring devotion and ceaseless thought were given to the upbuilding of the society. Faithful in his service to its members, he gave unsparingly of himself and was largely instrumental in making the project of erecting our building a success. The members of the board of directors realize a deep sense of personal loss at being deprived of his wise counsel, and advice, and our members generally will miss his ready and efficient aid in their genealogical and historical researches. He was a rich mine in all that concerned Newport and its traditions and it is quite safe to say there is no one now living who is so well versed in all the land holdings of its first settlers. He was fair-minded, courteous and faithful in all his dealings, and he possessed in an eminent degree the equipment for the offices which he held in this institution."

The president also reported the death of the following other members within the past year: Alexander O'D. Taylor, Admiral Charles S. Sperry, Richard Howell, Daniel C. Denham, Dr. Nathaniel R. Chase, Mrs. James Bush, Mrs. G. Blanchard Perry, James F. Woodward, John W. Ellis, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Thomas G. Brown, Mrs. William B. Rogers.

The membership of the society was reported to consist of 42 life, 123 annual, 24 associate and 22 sustaining members, "something of an increase over a year ago, but not large enough to provide funds to meet our increasing expenses." The number of visitors shows that interest in historical matters and research is not on the wane. There has been an increase in the additions to the collections and the society is better equipped than ever to serve its members. The society holds the following funds: Charles H. Russell fund, $1,000; David King book fund, $4,000; Life Membership fund, $1,372.76. The funded debt is now $5,000, having been reduced by $100 during the past year.

The librarian, Miss Edith M. Tilley, reported that since March, 1910, until the date of the meeting 200 books and pamphlets have been added to the library by purchase from the book fund or through the generosity of friends. The files of newspapers have been increased by 106 bound volumes. The collections of relics has also been enlarged. The list of contributors includes Mrs. Sarah K. Birckhead, Mrs. James Brundage, Jonas Bergner, Miss Martha Codman, Mrs. Daniel Denham, Miss Emily Fairchild, Daniel B. Fearing, Robert S. Franklin, Mrs. Theodore Gibbs, Mrs. William Grosvenor, Simon Hart, Asa Hildreth, Mrs. Joseph Howland, American Jewish Historical Society, Mrs. Thomas A. Lawton, William Lee, Louis L. Lorillard, Joseph P. Mumford, Mrs. John Mustard, Miss Matilda Nichols, Samuel Oppenheim, Miss M. B. Powel, George H. Richardson, Eugene Schreier, Mrs. Lorillard Spencer, George R. Stetson, Hamilton B. Tompkins, Miss Caroline Vose, Howard G. Ward and William A. Wing.

The librarian referred to the school children, who are the most interested visitors, coming to the rooms in classes or individually again and again, and who are eager for all sorts of knowledge.

The election of officers followed the reading of the reports and resulted as follows:

President—Hamilton B. Tompkins.
Vice Presidents—W. Watts Sherman, Daniel B. Fearing.
Corresponding Secretary—George H. Richardson.
Recording Secretary—Robert S. Franklin.
Treasurer—William S. Sherman.
Curator of Coins and Medals—Edwin P. Robinson.
Directors—William Watts Sherman, Daniel B. Fearing, Robert S. Franklin, George H. Richardson, William S. Sherman, Edwin P. Robinson. Jonas Bergner was elected a director in place of Alexander O'D. Taylor and Rev. Roderick Terry, D. D., in place of R. Hammett Tilley.

A resolution was passed inviting the General Society of the Cincinnati to use the rooms of the society during its triennial meeting to be held in this city in June.

A PIGEON STORY.

[Outing Magazine.]

"Yes, there's a few ducks out there," remarked the old hunter as he gazed out across the marsh at the cloud of teal "milling" up and down in the storm, "but they don't compare to the wild pigeons that used to be back in Pennsylvania. Why, sir, I have seen the pigeons so thick back there that if we wanted to tell the time of day by the sun we would have to throw up a club through the flight before we could see it.

"I mind me one time of the queerest experience I ever had. I was out hunting rabbits with an old musket. It was late in the fall and the rabbits weren't very thick. I was coming home and had just got to the barn lot when a flight of pigeons went over. They was just above my head and when I looked up I thought that a cyclone was coming. As they passed I up with my old musket and let drive. By gosh, I never got a pigeon.

"I went on into the house some disgusted. Pretty soon my boy went out with a basket to gather up some chips for a fire and when he come back he had that bushel basket full of legs. I had shot under them pigeons and just cut their legs off.

"The next day we went down to where they roosted in the timber back of the house and gathered up the birds. They couldn't sit on the limbs so they fell off and were lying on the ground."

PERSONALS.

....Sir William Schwenck Gilbert, the British author, died Monday in London. He was born in 1836, and was knighted by King Edward in 1907. The famous librettist, who, with Sir Arthur Sullivan developed many widely known operas, died suddenly of heart disease, while in his bath.

....A change in the weather permitting Emperor Francis Joseph to go out doors during the past few days has resulted in a great improvement in the catarrhal condition which which he has been suffering and the hope is expressed by his physicians that the emperor will be soon entirely recovered.

....Miss Susan Millhouser, organist of the United Presbyterian Church at Blairsville, Pa., died suddenly at her instrument while playing at a special Memorial day service. She was 45 years old. Near the end of the closing hymn the organ stopped abruptly. The congregation looked in surprise toward Miss Millhouser and saw that her head was bowed. When members of the choir reached her side she was dead from apoplexy.

....Fifty of the old friends of President Taft in Cincinnati are going to Washington June 19 to help the President and Mrs. Taft celebrate their silver wedding anniversary. On the afternoon of that day they will be the hosts at a luncheon at the Chevy Chase Club, and will have the President as their guest of honor. The President later in the day will give a garden party at the White House to his Cincinnati friends, at which the members of the diplomatic corps and prominent officials in Washington will be introduced to them.

"Stabbed in the Back."

How Many Newport Readers Have Had Those Sudden Twinges?

Have you ever had a "crick" in the back?

Does your back ache with a dull, heavy, draggy throb?

Is it hard to straighten up after stooping?

Hard to arise from a chair or turn in bed?

Is the urine dark colored? Passages irregular?

When your kidneys need attention, use a tested kidney remedy.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills—the remedy that has cured thousands.

Convincing proof of merit in Newport testimony.

John L. Cookingham, 20 Poplar St., Newport, R. I., says: "I was greatly benefited by Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & May's Drug Store and can therefore recommend them. I suffered almost constantly for two years from kidney complaint. There were such terrible pains in my back that I could scarcely turn over in bed and many nights I could not sleep at all. Doan's Kidney Pills went directly to the seat of my trouble and soon brought relief."

THE TOBACCO TRUST.

After the decision in the Standard Oil case there was hardly room to doubt what the fate of the Tobacco Trust would be, and yet there were rumors that the Supreme Court was to make fish of the one and flesh of the other. It did not, and we are making some progress toward a good practicable working definition of what an unlawful combination is.

The combination in one corporation or series of corporations, all under identical control, of the greater part of the concerns making cigarettes, cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco, selling cigars and tobacco and making the liquorice and the tin foil used in preparing and packing plug tobacco, left little room to dispute the proposition that the Tobacco Trust was an unlawful combination in that it was seeking a monopoly of the business.

This combination of concerns was shown, like the Standard Oil Company, to have resorted to all sorts of devices of questionable character to drive competitors out of business. It has made a practice of granting rebates to dealers who sold no goods except those which it produced. This of course had a decided tendency to make retailers buy of the trust only. It has entered into a combination with the English tobacco trust which secured each from competition of the other in its own country and the two pooled the foreign trade between themselves. It is alleged to have cut prices when necessary to run out a competitor. Altogether, the combination itself, in connection with the sort of warfare it waged with competitors, seemed to the Supreme Court, as it must seem to any one, to establish the fact that it was seeking to monopolize the tobacco business.

We are still without definite information whether or not a combination like that of the Steel Corporation, undoubtedly a combination to reduce competition, but apparently innocent of underhanded efforts to drive its competitors out of business, is unlawful. The purpose of the Stanley committee of the House of Representatives seems to be to find an answer to this question.

THE REGISTRATION CAMPAIGN.

The failure of the legislature to adopt the resolution to submit to the voters an amendment to the constitution of the state, abolishing that clause which provides as a qualification for voting for certain officers the possession of a small amount of property, has led to a special campaign for a large registration this year of that class of voters who under the existing law are required each year to register their names in the city or town in which they live as a pre-requisite to the right to vote at the elections of that year. Both parties are engaged in this campaign, but as usual the Democrats are making the most spectacular efforts. This is particularly true in Providence, where the board of registration every year refuses to visit the wards for the purpose of aiding in the work, but insists upon requiring all voters of this class to go to the city hall in order to register, and also refuses to keep the office open Saturday afternoons or any evenings except a few near the close of the period prescribed by law. These rules established by the board, from which it declines to budge in spite of many appeals from different sources, imposes a hardship on the laboring men, who are thus given little time during which they can register without great inconvenience or absence from their work.

There is scarcely any other city or town in the state in which the registration board or the town clerk assumes such an attitude, it being the common practice to visit different sections at certain fixed times in order to make it convenient for the voters to qualify. That is the plan in Newport and the advantage which it is found to be to the voters of sections remote from the City Hall in a place of this size indicates plainly how much greater a convenience it would be in a city so much larger as Providence. If the city clerk of Newport should refuse to go to the wards and insist that all who desired to register should come to him at the City Hall no would-be voters would be compelled to travel any very great distance, but in Providence under such an arrangement thousands must travel miles or else lose their right to cast their ballots at the elections during the year. The hardship thus unnecessarily and arbitrarily imposed upon the voters by the course pursued by the registration board of Providence can readily be appreciated.

How much effect the campaign which is being made throughout the state will have upon the elections of the year it is not possible now to foresee, but the Democrats are aiming at the qualifying of so many registry voters, and expect them to vote at the election in the fall in such a way as to overthrow the Republican control of affairs at the State House by the choice of Democratic state officers and a legislature with a Democratic majority. To that end they are holding registration rallies in Providence, with the purpose and hope of stirring up so much feeling against the Republicans for not passing the qualification clause repeal measure, which would have placed the registry voters on a par with others, as to secure the results for which they are working. They are also, both in Providence and in other parts of the state, using personal appeals and postal card requests for voters to qualify by registering.

The Republicans meanwhile are not idle, though they are limiting their efforts at present to appeals through the mails and personal work. They realize that to offset what the Democrats are doing they too must have a large registration of voters who are ordinarily of their party, though they must take the risk of registering men who will vote against the party because of its action through the legislature in defeating the property qualification repeal amendment. This places the party in a peculiar position. It cannot afford to neglect registration, and yet it is fearful that in urging this it may be compassing its own defeat. How much basis there is for such fear will hardly be known before the ballots cast at the election next November are counted, but there would seem on general principles to be some ground for it. The registration campaign at all events promises to be vigorous and a large vote at the next election is practically assured.

WILSON SWINGING AROUND THE CIRCLE.

It is astonishing how much information is needed by a thoroughly up-to-date governor of the state of New Jersey. Woodrow Wilson, LL. D., is a little surprised at being asked questions about the Presidency; he has not been thinking about that; he has just been traveling around the greater part of the United States, making speeches wherever he goes, to secure information so that he can do the right thing by the people of his own state.

The number of speeches which he is making would seem to indicate that he was traveling around to give information rather than to acquire it; in fact, his tour has all the appearance of a campaign for delegates to the Democratic national convention next year. If Dr. Wilson is after the nomination it is a perfectly laudable ambition. He is a good governor and would make a good President, and it is no discredit to any man to seek distinction. When the president of Princeton University decided to make the race for governor of New Jersey he could hardly have been unconscious of the fact that if any man could wrest New Jersey from the Republicans and put it back in the Democratic column, where it used to be, he would certainly be talked about a great deal for the next Presidential candidate.

Perhaps it is a little early for the governor of New Jersey to swing around his circle; favorable impressions now made may fade in the next 12 months. On the other hand, he could not wait till the eve of the convention before introducing himself to the country; the delegates would be elected by that time and all pledged to one candidate or another. Next winter he will be obliged to remain in Trenton and sit up with the legislature, and perhaps the present is as good a time as any for him to give the people who will elect the delegates an opportunity to look at him and hear him and become interested in his policies and his way of presenting them. But Woodrow Wilson, LL. D., has done more than set up his lightning rod; he has carried it around the country.

William J. Bryan is still after the Democratic leaders in Congress on the position they are taking on the wool tariff. His latest utterance on this subject is to the effect that the argument that the proposed tariff on wool is a revenue tariff, is "merely a subterfuge employed because those who employ it are ashamed to say they favor protection." Chairman Underwood of the House committee on ways and means says Bryan's criticism is unjust and unfair" and that the wool tariffs to be submitted to the Democratic caucus are much the same as the Wilson bill schedules. Ought not the Democratic leaders to come together?

Among the many decisions handed down by the United States Supreme Court Monday was one to the effect that so-called medicine which is nothing but sweetened water or pills composed of colored mud may be labelled "cures" and sold as such with impunity under the national pure food and drugs act. Provided there is no mistaken statement on the bottle of the constituent parts of the concoction the manufacturer is free to sell his goods. It is therefore the consumer's fault alone if he allows himself to be fooled.

President Taft does not propose to allow himself to be used as an advertisement for summer resorts and will not accept any of the numerous homes offered to him by various states. Having allowed the advertising campaign to run along for several weeks, the President has now made it known that he deems the matter of the selection of such a home one for Congressional action in which he can take no part.

Following the decision of the Supreme Court the American Tobacco Company will undertake a re-adjustment of its affairs. This will require long planning and attention to detail, but the officers feel sure that they will be able to present a plan which will meet approval and bring about a new condition fully in accordance with the legal requirements.

An agreement has been reached in the United States Senate whereby the Lorimer inquiry will be entrusted to a special bi-partisan committee of eight, half of whose members shall be pro-Lorimer, two Republicans and two Democrats who favor Lorimer and two Republicans and two Democrats who opposed him making up the committee.

Another Memorial day has come and gone. During the past year the ranks of the veterans have been largely decreased. May the observances of the day continue long after the last of the veterans has answered the final roll-call!

At the Memorial day exercises at Arlington President Taft spoke not so much as a friend of peace as an enemy of war. That will serve.

The army and navy helped materially in making Memorial day notable in Newport.

THE JUNE MAGAZINES.

The June Century is an Anglo-American number, having four pages in color, and with several articles of timely interest on both sides the Atlantic by prominent English and American writers. James Davenport Whelpley, the authority who has written several "Trade of the World" papers for the Century, presents vital facts and figures regarding "The Commercial Strength of Great Britain." Rear Admiral A. T. Mahan, author of "The Influence of Sea Power Upon History," discusses important phases of "The Panama Canal and Sea Power in the Pacific." James Cardinal Gibbons's "An Anglo-American Pact of Peace" is a wise and kindly message of good will to the English people.

Special mention should be made of the second installment of Professor Guglielmo Ferrero's notable series of papers on "The Women of the Caesars," in which he tells the dramatic histories of Livia and Julia, wife and daughter of Augustus, whose struggles for leadership resemble, in so many ways, the war today between the new and the old, that the narrative takes on an almost surprisingly timely vitality and interest.

Ellis Parker Butler, Molly Elliot Seawell, Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, Kate Masterson, Thomas L. Masson, Burton Egbert Stevenson, and a dozen other writers are among the contributors to the June Lippincott's. The complete novel is "The Privateer," a tale of the Southland, fascinating in its style. This is the first long story by the author, Eleanor Mercein Kelly, whose short stories, however, have been attracting a great deal of attention.

There are many short stories, on a wide variety of themes. "The Scoop," by Ellis Parker Butler, is funny, but has its pathetic side as well. Another happy yarn is "The Trail of the White Colt," by Lowell Edwin Hardy. "A Wireless Tragedy," by Molly Elliot Seawell, is an amusing tale of a near-tragedy on one of the great new ocean liners. "The Doctor's Wife—After Hour," by Daisy Rinehart, is both soul-stirring and picturesque. "According to the Law," by Ella Middleton Tybout, is the second in a series of short stories on Department life in Washington. "The Hut of Peter the Great," by Burton Egbert Stevenson, is a travel tale on original lines. "Empire-Builders," by Edith Ayrton Zangwill, and "The Sweet-Grass Basket," by Karl von Kraft, are sketches of charm.

Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick, director in the Russell Sage Foundation, writes on "The Requirements of Healthful Exercise." "New Thought and Common Sense" is the title of Kate Masterson's offering. Thomas L. Masson inquires "What Is a Gentleman?" and then answers his own question, and Ellis O. Jones gives a satirical sketch called "Let Us Have War." There are a number of poems, one of special merit being "In Yucca Land," by Madge Morris.

FOLLOWING HALLEY'S COMET.

W. W. Campbell, director of Lick Observatory, in a report on Halley's comet says: "Halley's comet, which was nearest to the sun and to the earth and at its greatest brilliancy more than a year ago, has been followed on its journey into distant space with the telescopes of Lick Observatory. The comet is now a little farther than Jupiter is from the sun; that is, about 500,000,000 miles, but Astronomer Curtis has photographed it with the Crossley reflector on two nights of this week, exactly in the predicted position. The comet is now 60 per cent farther from the sun than it was when its approach to the sun was discovered photographically in September, 1909."

Soldiers' Graves Decorated by Newport Comrades—Boyd Farm Near Bristol Ferry Sold.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

The soldiers' graves in the Portsmouth cemetery and in the Friends' burial ground were decorated with flowers and flags by comrades from Newport Tuesday. Perhaps there were never so many who have relatives and friends in these and St. Paul's churchyard who brought flowers in remembrance as this year. Scarcely had one or more persons departed before others arrived and the flowers were of choice varieties.

Health Officer Steele went to the Bradford coaling station and vaccinated the crew on a dredger at work there. The cook recently was seized with small pox and taken to the pest house at Field's Point.

The heirs of the late Byron D. Boyd have sold their farm of nine acres and buildings, on the lower road near Bristol Ferry, to Mr. Barton A. Hallon. The house is very old, scarcely habitable and said to be the oldest in the town. It is reported that it was once, or a part of it, a schoolhouse near the northern end of Bristol Ferry, and was moved from there to its present location. Historians say the first religious services on the island was held on it and that it was the beginning of the settlement.

Rev. James H. Dennis and his sister, Miss Jane Dennis, entertained the guild of Holy Trinity Church at their home at "Willow Brook," 18 being present. The day was spent in making cassocks for the church choir. Dinner was served by the hostess from two tables set in the dining room, the center decoration of one being a large display of apple blossoms and the decorations of the other table pansies.

Mrs. George Hart of Glen street gave a miscellaneous shower last week to her sister, Miss Edna C. Almy, in view of the near approach of the latter's marriage to Mr. Joseph D. Chase of Middletown. The gifts included cut glass, china, linen and a miscellaneous collection of beautiful and useful articles. Cake and ice cream were served.

Miss Marguerite Macomber has gone to Washington to visit Colonel John Tweedale, chief clerk of the War Department, and Mrs. Tweedale. On her return she will visit in New York and Philadelphia before going with her mother, Mrs. Macomber, who is now in Barrington, Mass., to Jaffray, N. H., to spend the summer.

Mrs. John Wesley Tallman is spending the week with her brother, Mr. John Levi Tallman, and wife.

The Busy Bees gave a cold meat supper Monday evening.

Mr. Clifford Bodge of Fall River, who ran into Mrs. Belle L. Tallman's carriage, containing four women and a baby—Mrs. Tallman, Mrs. Mary L. Russell, Mrs. Edward Suddington and Mrs. Charles Burroughs—last summer with his automobile, throwing the baby into the road, shaking up and injuring all of them and breaking the carriage, has made a settlement, it is reported.

In the account of Mr. John F. Chase's family at the time of his death, recently, it was said that he was the last of the large family. This was a mistake, as a brother, Albert Chase, 92 years and six months old, lives with his daughter, Mrs. Albert Parker, in Jersey City.

Mrs. Langslow and her daughter, Miss Helena Langslow, of Rochester, N. Y., who spent the summer at Mrs. L. A. Popple's recently, and Miss Mary Lincoln of North Dighton, whose guests they are, were in town Memorial Day. Miss Langslow is going from there to Worcester to act as bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lyons of Washington, who have been guests of Mr. Lyons's mother, have gone to Newport to spend the summer.

Miss Lillian Duckworth of Newark, N. J., formerly of this town, has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Louis S. Slocum.

Mrs. Michael J. Murphy spent Memorial day in Providence, guest of her sister.

Miss Lillian Wheeler was guest of Mr. and Mrs William. McCoy on an automobile trip to Plymouth, Mass., Sunday and Memorial day the party went to Point Judith.

Mrs. Belle L. Tallman and Mrs. Thomas J. Sweet went to Keene, N. H., Monday, to visit Mrs. Tallman's daughter, Miss Dorothea C. Tallman.

Mrs. Frank L. Tallman has gone to Dover, N. H., to spend 10 days with her sons, Messrs. Louis and Norman Tallman.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Murphy and family of Wapping road spent Memorial day in Slocum, guests of Messrs W. G. Brown and Edward Caswell and their families.

Inside repairs and improvements are being made to the dwelling house at "Linden Farm," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Mayer of Poughkeepsie, who expect to spend the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Cornell of Bristol have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Davol.

Mr. and Mrs Arthur Hyson of Fall River were guests Memorial day of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Davol.

Mr. Johnson, superintendent at the coal mines, has moved his family to Newport.

The choir of Holy Trinity Church hung their rector, Rev. James H. Dennis, and their Sunday School teacher, Miss Jane Dennis, a large and beautiful May basket at "Willow Brook." After a lively chase they were invited to the house and Miss Dennis served them with sandwiches, cake and coffee. Piano and vocal selections were given.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sisson and their son of Providence have been guests of Mrs. Sisson's mother, Mrs. Robert D. Hull, and family on Bristol Ferry road.

Mrs. Byron D. Boyd and her daughter, Miss Myra, have taken possession of their new bungalow near Freeborne street.

Mrs. Arthur L. Fish of Dorchester, Mass., is visiting Mr. Lawrence F. Fish and family.

THE CONSTITUTION OF NEW MEXICO.

[The National Post.]

There is sufficient internal evidence in the constitution of New Mexico to convict the railroads and the other privileged corporations of the territory with having copper-riveted New Mexico as a perpetual patrimony under their control. The result has been achieved by various subtle provisions in the constitution which, read together, provide in effect:

(1) That the ballot shall be "open," which according to judicial interpretation appears to deny the introduction of the secret Australian ballot and limits elections to some "open" method of showing hands or viva voce voting.

(2) That any educational limitation on the suffrage is specifically and absolutely prohibited, which, taken in connection with the fact that one quarter of the population of New Mexico is Mexican, speaks only Spanish, and is largely in the employ of the railroads and other interests, means that this class can be herded and voted as its employers dictate.

(3) That any amendment of the constitution is almost impossible, the requirement to change it in any respect being that a resolution must be passed by two succeeding sessions of the legislature and by a two thirds vote of all the members elected to each house; that then the amendment must be submitted to the people and that for adoption it must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election; and an affirmative vote of at least 40 per cent of all those voting at the election, and in at least one half the counties in the state.

It is this latter provision that makes amendment impossible. Not more than 60 per cent of the electors commonly vote on constitutional questions, and in order that an amendment may carry, it must secure two thirds of all the votes cast on the resolution. With the large Mexican illiterate vote, the open ballot subject to oversight by the privileged interests and with no corrupt practices act, any amendment that privilege disapproves is out of the question.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, May 31.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Showers tonight and Thursday; rising temperature Thursday; moderate easterly to southerly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The weather this morning is generally unsettled in New England and the Middle Atlantic states and thence westward to the Mississippi valley. There have been scattered rains reported at many stations in these districts. The weather is generally fair, with much sunshine, in the Rocky mountains and on the Pacific slope. It is generally clear also in the Gulf and south Atlantic coast states. The pressure is slightly above the normal in the extreme northeast. A mild depression prevails over the Lake region. The barometer is slightly above the normal on the eastern slope of the Rocky mountains and slightly below in the southwest. There has been practically no change in temperature as compared with that of yesterday and it is near the seasonal average in nearly all portions of the country. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 62, Washington 72, Jacksonville 74, St. Louis 56, Chicago 62, Des Moines, 64, Kansas City 70, St. Paul 58, Denver 64, San Francisco 54 and Portland, Oregon, 60.

TWO CONCERTS.

At the Mt. Zion Church,- Closing the Conference, and by Mr. Lodter's Pupils.

The closing of the New England Annual Conference was marked by a concert Monday evening at the Mt. Zion African Methodist Episcopal Church. Fully 400 were present and the audience was appreciative, every number being well sustained. The following program was rendered: Piano solo, Mrs. Octavia Dash; selection, "A Stray Sunbeam," Miss Lillian M. Lynch of Pittsfield, Mass.; solo, "Roll on, Thou dark and Deep Blue Sea," J. R. Wood; character sketch, Herbert Williams and George Hodgen; piano solo, W. Herbert Hodgen; duet, Mr. Wright and Mr. Townsend; selection, Girard Quartet; Johnson selection, Miss Louise Olley of New Bedford; selection, "Tommy's Prayer," Miss Lillian M. Lynch; solo, Professor Banks; piano solo, Miss Florence Carter. A social hour with refreshments followed the concert.

Odd Fellows' hall was well filled Tuesday evening, the occasion being the concert and recital given by Mr. Edward Lodter, assisted by the Newport Mandolin Club and orchestra, together with a number of Mr. Lodter's pupils. The latter included Elsa Lake, Gladys Hilton, Dorothy Koehne, Rika Eaton, Brice Marvel, Henry Reavey, Larry Koehne, Thomas Mahoney, Irna ..., Alfred Schultz, J. Reuter, ... C. Levy, Camille Lodter, J. ..., E. Anderson, B. Murlland, M. Mason, ..., Fred Hummell with Misses Marion Lake and N. Mason assisting at the piano.

Mr. Lodter was on the program for several solos and played in his usual accomplished manner. The work of the young people was well done and reflected credit upon them and their teacher. Particular notice should be given to Mr. Lodter's rendition of Sarasate's wild and fanciful "Zigeunerweisen." Dancing concluded the evening's entertainment.

IN CHARGE OF PLAYGROUNDS.

Louis R. Chase Appointed Supervisor, With Assistant at Each of the Schools.

The Newport Playground Association has elected Mr. Louis R. Chase supervisor of the city playgrounds for the summer. It is hoped to open the various grounds as soon as school closes. The following assistants have also been appointed, though there will probably be some changes in their stations: John Herrington, Cranston; Stanley Ward, Potter; Miss Louise Nixon and Miss Alice Donovan, Basin; Miss Connell, Lenthal; Miss Gertrude Manchester, Coddington.

The playground committee recently appointed by the School Committee consists of five of its members—Dr. R. E. Darrah, chairman; Rev. Father Reddy, John P. Sullivan, Rev. E. H. Porter, D. D., and Robert C. Bacheller.

GOOD BOXING BOUTS.

The boxing exhibition at the Perry Athletic Club Monday evening drew a good-sized gallery to the Hippodrome, and there was something there to see. The two preliminaries were interesting. The opener was stopped in the third round by the referee, as Larry Ward of the Torpedo Station was too much for his opponent. The second bout went almost to the limit and was quite even until Kid Lambert of Fort Adams put in a good swing. Then it was all over.

The main bout between Honey Melody of Boston and Frank Perron of Pawtucket was good from start to finish. Perron was ambitious but at the same time cautious, and let the older boxer do all the leading, being ready with a come back. Melody had the better of it up to the seventh, when Perron did some effective work. Then Melody led again until the last round, when Perron seemed to have a trifle on him. It was a good, fast, clean exhibition of boxing all through from start to finish.

YACHT NOTES.

Steam yachts Aloha and Wanderer were dressed in rainbow fashion for Decoration day. The Aloha left for New York about noon.

A number of small yachts were in port Tuesday. Today schooner yacht Minetta, Mr. J. P. Bailey; sloop, Adventurer and launches Roberta and Barnacle are in.

The station of the New York Yacht Club is due to open for the season Wednesday. Mr. Whitten is all ready; in fact, the place has been ready for some time past, though the painters have been about.

THE FISHING CATCH.

Tuesday the fishermen shipped a barrel of scup per man, and today are shipping a barrel and a quarter. There was considerable other fish shipped Tuesday. Macomber & Nickerson having 7 barrels of sea bait and 23 of flounders, both large.

There were some mackerel. The Juliette had 1,000, the Sea Queen 700, the T. W. Lawson 150, the M. Madeline 1,-000, the Maragaret McKenzie 300 and the Gypsy Maid 600. A few netters arrived this morning with small catches, the Fritz A. Oakes having 200.

Captain Charles Harty has added himself to the mackerel buyers' department of the fish agents' association of Long wharf. He had been in New York while the mackerel lasted. John E. Gorman and James Ryan, with probably Ike Price, are expected soon and then the quota of buyers will be complete.

Some of the handsomest mackerel yet here this year were brought in by Charles Gray, who is fishing off Chilmark, Martha's Vineyard. He had six barrels of fish so large that they went 100 to the barrel. The big mackerel landed here have been running about 60.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The travel on the ferries Tuesday was the best of the season. A large number of automobile parties crossed between Saunderstown and Newport and many of the Islanders visited Newport to see the parade. The threatening weather probably kept a number at home.

Servants have arrived to put Mr. G. Lovering's new bungalow on the west shore in readiness for the season.

Mr. James Quirpel, who has been visiting his wife, has returned to his duties at Panama.

The dance given Tuesday evening in the Gardner House hall by the Peckham orchestra, which also furnished the music, was an enjoyable affair. There was a good attendance, several coming from Fort Greble and Saunderstown.

C. E. Weeden has rented for Mrs. L. E. Gilmore of New York her furnished cottage on the east shore at the foot of High street to Mr. J. Madison Thompson of Baltimore for the season of 1911.

Dr. H. Johns Rhett has arrived at his cottage on Walcott avenue for the season.

Mrs. C. Whitney of Boston was on the island today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hawkins of Boston spent Decoration day at the Weeden cottage on the North Main road.

About 100 boys from St. George's School, Newport, attended the school picnic at Potter's cove Tuesday.

Mrs. E. N. Hammond, who has been seriously ill for the past few days at her home on the west shore, is reported as much improved. Her daughter, Mrs. C. Blvins of Brooklyn, arrived Monday to be with her mother.

MILKING RULE MUST STAND.

The Board of Health has notified the committee of the milk dealers that it sees no good reason to repeal rule 10 of the rules for the production of milk for sale in Newport, as it does not involve any hardship. Besides, this is included in all good rules for the regulation of milk production. It provides that the first milk from the teats shall not go with the milk to be sold for consumption, but must be taken in another vessel. The milkmen say this cannot well be done with the help they have, but perhaps their help can do things as well as other dealers' help.

WEATHER IN VARIETY.

There has been a variety of weather since The News was last issued. Some say there was a good thunder and lightning storm in the wee sma' hours of Tuesday morning, but some missed that part of the performance. There was fog which shut down about 6 o'clock Monday and later let up. Tuesday there was a variety, from a damp, misty stickiness in the morning to a short shower followed by sunshine in the afternoon, and cool weather in the evening. Today it seems as though it might rain about any time. The wind is from the rainy quarter and no one will be surprised if it rains. Some have been carrying umbrellas.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Steamer Sagamore is hauled out at the shipyard to be painted.

—The Newport Yacht Club has gone into commission for the season.

—Barge Owen Brady is discharging a cargo of coal for Pinniger & Manchester.

—The hotels and private boarding-houses were well filled Monday and Tuesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. E. Livingston Ludlow have arrived at their cottage on Harrison avenue.

—Mrs. W. G. Weld of Boston has arrived at her cottage on Bellevue avenue for the season.

—Mr. Henry H. Ward and family of Washington have arrived at their cottage on Red Cross avenue.

—Dr. W. Seward Webb, Mr. Vanderbilt Webb and Mr. Walter Webb, Jr., have sailed for Europe.

—Mr. Robert Goelet has arrived at the Thomas cottage, Bellevue avenue, which he has taken for the season.

—Power launch Weow, E. D. Gray, arrived in the harbor this morning from Boston on a cruise to the Great Lakes.

—The Perry House was adorned in its holiday regalia Tuesday, the permanent equipment of American flags appearing at every window.

—DeBlois & Eldridge have rented for Mrs. J. Van D. Reed her cottage on the westerly side of Bellevue avenue to Charles A. Childs of New York for the season.

—A civilian was pushed through a window in one of the frankfort carts on Washington square Monday night and received a bad cut on the forehead. The pusher escaped.

—An entertainment complimentary to all members will be given at the Young Men's Christian Association Friday evening, at which there will be a variety of vocal and instrumental music.

—The Naval Reserves had a large attendance of young dancing people at their "Election Day" social Monday night. The hall was decorated with flags and pennants and the H. R. Howard orchestra furnished music.

—Strangers to the city on Memorial day had an opportunity to see what the place is for uniforms. While there was a big parade there seemed to be hundreds of soldiers and sailors on the sidewalks, doing the spectator act.

—Lodge No. 145, Danish Brotherhood, held another of its frequent socials Monday evening, with a good attendance. Lodter's orchestra played for the dancing and in the course of the evening coffee and cake was served.

—Secretary W. H. Chapin of the Young Men's Christian Association has gone to Columbus, Ohio, to attend the conference of the Employed Officers' organization, at which he has been present for several years. He will return the last of the week.

—Island Park was the mecca for many young people Tuesday evening. The pavilion was open for dancing under delightfully cool conditions and this evidently appealed more strongly to the dancers than the local halls. Extra cars were run on all the trips.

—Under the auspices of the local Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association a gospel service is to be held on board the Connecticut Friday evening. Rev. George W. Quick, D. D. will preach, Miss Gertrude Hass is to sing and there will be music by a quartet from the ship's company.

—Arrivals at the Perry House: Lieutenant W. G. Tremain, U. S. N. and wife, E. D. Longworthy, U. S. N.; H. H. Frost, U. S. N.; R. C. Berkley, U. S. M. C.; E. H. Ellis, U. S. M. C.; G. Bradley, Boston; Percy Blair, Paris, A. A. Berger, New York; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pritchard, Bridgeport.

—Things have been rather quiet in police circles during the past two days, but this was not because people were not on the streets. Tuesday two drunken men paid fines of $2 and costs each. This morning two sailors who had an argument over the gunnery trophy were fined $10 and costs each for an assault on a policeman, and two revellers paid $5 and costs.

—The tank for storing dustoline has arrived and been placed in the freight yard, just off Marsh street. It will hold 8,000 gallons, or as much as a tank car, and will be used as a reservoir. With this a tank car can be unloaded at once without demurrage and the dustoline can be used to advantage when the roads are in the best condition and some can be kept for emergency use.

—A breaking and entering case is reported from the City Hall. This morning, when the city sealer of weights and measures entered his office, which is in the basement, he found that some one had entered by a window which has a defective fastener and had ransacked his desk, throwing the contents on the floor. So far as could be learned nothing was stolen; there was really nothing to steal.

—There was a narrow squeeze in the dry goods district this noon which suggested that the traffic ordinance was not being very generally enforced. Two ice carts on the east side of Thames street, heading down, were discharging their cargoes, and on the opposite of the street was a team standing at the curb and heading up. All three were headed the wrong way and remained there quite a period.

THE CHICKASAW OVERDUE.

With a Base Ball Party from the Torpedo Station, She Grounds on a Mud Bank.

Tug Chickasaw of the Torpedo Station made a trip to Providence Memorial day with the seaman gunners' class base ball team, who were scheduled to play in Crompton. The tug with the party were hours overdue in returning to the Station, for the navigating officer of the ship found one of the mud banks on the side of the narrow winding channel called Providence river which leads to that place which is striving hard to be placed on the map as a seaport city. It was on the return trip that witnesses ashore had a suspicion that the tug would ram Fuller's rock, but instead her helm was put hard over and in avoiding striking a launch she swung her stern into the mud.

John Murray of Kettle Point boarded the craft and as master wrecker gave directions for flooding her forward compartments and lifting off her stern. This done, the craft started again. Up the river it was supposed that the craft would finally wait until daylight to complete the journey, but other than rubbing her stern in a little mud it was not a very eventful cruise for those on board, and last night her safe return was duly reported to the executive officer of the Station.

LATEST NAVAL NEWS.

Orders to Officers and Movements of Vessels Reported.

[Special despatch to The News.]

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The following orders to officers were announced by the Navy Department today:

Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, detached from the command of the Atlantic fleet and ordered to duty in connection with the general board.

Captain R. M. Doyle, detached from the Third lighthouse district and ordered to the Navy Department, Washington.

Commander A. E. Watson, orders of May 27 revoked, detached from the Dubuque and ordered to the Maine as navigator.

Lieutenant E. P. Finney, detached from the Naval Academy and ordered to the Nashville as executive and navigating officer.

Lieutenant (junior grade) J. M. Smeallie, orders of May 23 revoked.

Midshipman E. B. Langworthy, detached from the Connecticut and ordered to the Delaware.

Paymaster E. F. Hall, detached from the navy yard, New York, and ordered to the naval hospital, New York, for treatment.

Chaplain L. N. Taylor, detached from the navy yard, Philadelphia, and ordered to the Indiana.

Chief Boatswain D. Montague, ordered to the naval hospital, Boston, for treatment.

Chief Machinist M. M. Schreiber, detached from the Indiana and will await orders.

Machinist W. Herzburg, detached from the works of the Maryland Steel Company, Sparrow Point, Md., and ordered to the Indiana.

The following movements of vessels were reported today to the department:

Arrived—Patapsco, Hannibal and Sylph, at New York; Nebraska at Yankton, Yorktown at Panama.

Sailed—Ajax, from Galveston for Charleston; Justin, from San Diego for Mare Island; Perkins, from Indianapolis for New York; Petrel, from Santo Domingo City for San Juan; Helena, from Hankow for Ichang; Idaho, from Baton Rouge for Plaquemine.

ARMY ENGINEERS CONFIDENT.

Cofferdam Around Wreck of the Maine Is Assured of Success.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Without precedent in engineering practice and projecting only a foot or two above high tide level, the cofferdam built around the wreck of battleship Maine in Havana harbor is assured of success in the opinion of army engineers. The landlocked harbor is not disturbed by high waves and engineers say that if the dam should ever be threatened with flooding from the top its height could be easily augmented.

Pumping out the water probably will begin about June 15. It has been delayed because some of the steel rails driven to interlock the circular tubes that make the wals were bent, permitting water to pass through. Limited facilities handicapped straightening these rails. It is expected that some leaks will develop as the water level in the dam lowers, but that is true of all large dams and the leaks can be controlled.

WHITE STAR LINER TITANIC.

Sister Ship of the Olympic Launched in the River Laffan.

BELFAST, Ireland, May 31.—White Star liner Titanic, a sister ship of the Olympic, was launched in the river Laffan here today. Enthusiastic crowds lined the river's bank. J. Pierpont Morgan and J. Bruce Ismay, chairman and managing director of the White Star line, witnessed the launching. The Titanic will enter the New York-Southampton service late in the year. She is of 46,000 tons register and 882½ feet long.

ON BENCH NEARLY 34 YEARS.

Associate Justice Harlan to Celebrate His Seventy-Eighth Birthday.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Associate Justice John Marshall Harlan of the Supreme Court of the United States tomorrow will celebrate his seventy-eighth birthday anniversary. Justice Harlan's health is excellent and he said today that he had been sick but twice in his life. December 10 next he will have been on the bench 34 years. If he remains until June 10, 1912, he will have served longer than any justice since the organization of the court.

ACQUIRED BY NEW HAVEN ROAD.

Providence & Danielson and Sea View Electric Lines Leased for a Long Period.

The lease of the Providence & Danielson and the Sea View railroads to the Rhode Island Company for a long period of years is announced. This means that these two lines of electric railroads pass into the control of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, and with a contemplated extension westward will connect with the Westerly & Stonington street railway, already in operation.

The lease of the Providence & Danielson runs for 999 years, beginning June 30, 1911, and the lease of the Sea View is in almost precisely similar terms. According to the last official report for 1911, the SeaView had $700,-000 of capital stock paid in, a funded debt of $558,000 and a floating debt of $49,062. The line is somewhat more than 20 miles long, running from just outside East Greenwich to Narragansett Pier and Peacedale. The Providence & Danielson has common stock of $1,000,-000, a funded debt of $600,000 and a floating debt of $13,572. The line has about 27 miles in Rhode Island and five in Connecticut, running from Market Square, Providence, to East Killingly, Conn., where it connects with a line of the Connecticut company running to Danielson, Conn. The construction account of the company is $1,065,776.

With this addition of about 52 miles of street railway to the traction lines already owned or controlled by the New Haven company the total mileage of its street railway single trackage in Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island is nearly 1,400.

The control of the Sea View railroad passed February last into the hands of new interests, many of whom are financially identified with the Danielson road.

In railroad circles it is believed that the acquisition of these two roads is a part of the policy of the New Haven management bearing on the future plans of the Grand Trunk Railway for extension to the seaboard from Palmer. John S. Murdock, attorney for the Grand Trunk, however, states that the leasing of these two roads in no way affects the plans of the Grand Trunk for its extension into Providence. The Grand Trunk road, it is explained by Mr. Murdock as well as by D. F. Sherman, president of the Providence & Danielson Railroad Company, had an option on the Providence & Danielson until it was found that no use could be made of that road in carrying out the plans of the Grand Trunk officials.

IDENTIFIED 13,000 SOLDIERS' GRAVES.

A memorial cannon and tablet has just been dedicated at Terryville, Conn., with fitting ceremonies to Dorence Atwater, who, while a prisoner during the Civil war at Andersonville, copied for the Confederate government the names of 13,000 federal prisoners who died while in confinement, and who secreted on his person a duplicate list by means of which the graves of all the dead were found at the close of the war.

CORSETS.

We have never shown a new corset that so quickly attracted wide attention and comment as has the RENGO BELT.

This corset has the most pronounced style of any we carry, due to the remarkable idea of tailoring a reinforcing belt into the body of the corset which positively produces an even, sloping waist and reduces the hips. A pronounced waist line is largely due to lacing. The RENGO BELT gives the waist a graceful, natural shape with long flowing lines from bust to thigh, unmarred by large hips.

The rustless, double watch-spring boning, which is an exclusive feature of this corset, insures an erect lithe carriage without any uncomfortable stiffness.

The Rogers team, accompanied by about 40 rooters, journeyed to East Greenwich, and in a seven-inning game was defeated 8-6. Owing to the Memorial Day celebration the game did not start until 4 o'clock, leaving the visiting team only an hour and a half. The managers came to an agreement before the game that the contest should be called at 5:30. At 5:15 Rogers was engaged in a batting rally which bade fair to give them the game, but at the end of the first half of the seventh inning East Greenwich withdrew from the field.

The game played on a field which had little resemblance to a base ball diamond. Grass stood a foot high in centre field, and the losing of the ball in this grass was responsible for East Greenwich's first run, and for another later in the game. The umpiring was not of the best, being especially weak on balls and strikes.

Rogers played like a beaten team up to the seventh inning, when it had its usual rally. The boys lacked life and were weak in their fielding. Turner did not play his customary snappy game at short, although he was unusually effective at the bat. Sayer worked pretty well, although he was found for several long hits. The outfielders made some fine tries for balls, but found it impossible to catch them, owing to the condition of the field. Wilks substituted ably for Arnold as backstop.

For East Greenwich Spencer, Sears and Lyon played well. Spencer did the pitching, and at times was effective but at other times equally wild. He did some good batting, as did Sears, who obtained a home run and a two-base hit. His home run would have been an easy putout on a good field, but Baker in trying to catch the ball stumbled and lost in the grass. Lyon batted strongly, but did not show up well behind the plate.

The visitors were the first to score, tallying one run in the opening inning. Oxx went out third to first, but Baker walked, stole second and reached third on a passed ball. Wilks struck out, but Underwood sent Baker in, and was put out on third. East Greenwich tied in the second by Sears home run, and in the third scored two more. Sayer hit the first man up, and the next made a hit, but Wilks was put out trying to steal home. Neill walked and he and Lyon scored. In the fifth an error, a base on balls, a three-bagger and a single netted three more runs for East Greenwich, and in the sixth four infield errors gave the home team their last two runs.

Rogers came to the front in the seventh with a strong rally. Eddy hit out a single and reached second and third on bungling by the fielders. Freeman struck out, but the catcher missed the third strike and threw wild to third, and Eddy crossed the plate. Turner sent in Freeman and scored himself, on an error by the catcher. Martin struck out, but Sayer reached first on a bad error by Sears. Oxx connected for a double. Baker struck out, and Wilks made a nice single which brought in Lyon. Sayer and Oxx. Underwood filled out to centre field. The score:

In the minor series of the Grammar School League Cranston forfeited a game to Coddington, failing to present a full nine. St. Joseph's won a postponed game, 22 to 5, with Clarke.

That 23 to 0 knockout was too much for the Daily News team and it did not come back for the game arranged for Tuesday. The other team was ready, but The News players had a day off. Some suspect they had a day off when the Come Backs "did" them.

Tomorrow in the City League the Training Station meets the Young Men's Christian Association.

NEWPORT ARTILLERY CHANGES.

Private Goodhue Succeeds Lieutenant Patterson as Inspector of Rifle Practice.

At the monthly meeting of the Newport Artillery Tuesday evening the resignation of First Lieutenant Robert Patterson, Jr., inspector of rifle practice, which had been received at a previous meeting, was accepted and Private Charles I. Goodhue was elected to fill the vacancy. Lieutenant Goodhue has been a member of the company about a year, but during that time has been greatly interested in both indoor and outdoor shooting and won a state's bar for expert marksmanship. He was for many years a member of the Massachusetts National Guard.

Colonel Frank P. King, commanding the Newport Artillery, has appointed the following non-commissioned officers of the company:

Sergeant Major—David A. Lawton.
Ordnance Sergeant—Thomas H. Lawton.
Quartermaster Sergeant—Ernest S. Darling.
Commissary Sergeant—Milton E. Dennis.
Color Sergeant—Eric Sestrom.
Bridge Sergeant—Charles T. Bliss.
Chief Musician—Daniel A. Peckham.
Corporals—Chester L. Wyman, Frank W. King, John S. Bradfield, Alonzo A. Knowe, William Thompson, Harold O. Johnson.
Musicians—Henry C. Sherman, Jr., Frank R. Peabody, David Brown, Spencer Brown, Charles A. Sherman.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. and Mrs. William Coles have arrived for the season.

—A number have gone to New York to attend the polo games.

—Judge Fitzsimmons was among the many visitors here Tuesday.

—Mr. Michael Roache and family of New York are here for the season.

—Dr. and Mrs. F. A. Corbett are camping in the Maine woods for a short time.

—Mr. Samuel F. Barger and family have arrived at "Edna Villa" for the season.

—Mr. H. C. Morgan and Miss Morgan of New York are registered at the Casino.

—Congressman and Mrs. George F. O'Shaunnessy were visitors here Tuesday.

—Mr. and Mrs. George Davis of Woonsocket were here Tuesday to visit relatives.

—Mrs. Cotten, wife of Lieutenant Commander S. A. Cotten, is at the Corson cottage.

—Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer arrived Tuesday at their cottage, "Wayside," on Bellevue avenue.

—Dr. and Mrs. William D. Riggs, who have been visiting relatives here, have returned to Brooklyn.

—Mrs. T. J. Emery and Mrs. C. J. Livingood of Cincinnati are at their cottages on Honeyman hill.

—Miss Eva Drew of New Jersey was a Memorial Day guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Andrews on Summer street.

—Auxiliary yacht Mohigan, with Mr. J. Borden Harriman and Oliver Harriman on board, has gone to New York.

—Mr. Charles Davenport has been spending a few days with his brother, Mr. Frank Davelport, on Clinton avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Michael O'Brien have gone to New York on a visit and Mr. James P. O'Brien is on a visit in Brooklyn.

—Rev. Dr. Edward A. Johnson of the First Baptist Church of this city delivered the Memorial Day oration at Easton, Mass.

—Mrs. James Lowell Putnam entertained at dinner Sunday evening and at luncheon Monday afternoon at the Flint cottage, Berkeley avenue.

—Burning leaves on the Edgar estate, off Sunnyside place, caused a still alarm at 11:30 o'clock Tuesday night and the response of Chemical 1.

—Mr. and Mrs. John B. Urquhart announce the engagement of their daughter, Anna Balfour, to Mr. Walter Sydney Morgan, formerly of this city and now of New York.

—Commodore Arthur Curtiss James's auxiliary yacht Aloha left at noon Tuesday for New York. Earlier in the day the Aloha was decorated with flags in honor of Memorial day.

—James Mullin of New York, C. W. Halsch of Milwaukee, E. B. Kinson of Chicago, William Greenalet of Bennington and Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Dickinson of Annapolis are registered at the United States Hotel.

—Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Thaw have returned to New York after inspecting their cottage, "Beach Mound," at Bailey's Beach. They will sail for Europe June 7. Their house will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Davies, who will arrive June 7 for the season.

—The Water Works automobile ran into a Portuguese riding a bicycle at Marlborough and Farewell streets Tuesday morning. The bicycle was knocked down and the man thrown, but the automobile was stopped before it ran over him.

—The grand matron of the Grand Chapter of Rhode Island, Mrs. Louise A. Babcock, accompanied by the grand marshal, Miss Mattie C. Browning, and her suite of officers, will make an official visit to Aquidneck Chapter, No. 7, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday evening, June 6.

—Invitations have been received here to the wedding of Miss Isabel Poland Rankin, daughter of Mrs. Henry Otis Cashman, to Captain Homer B. Grant, coast artillery corps, at the Central Church, Boston, Thursday evening. Captain Grant was formerly on duty at Fort Adams and is now in command of mine planter Schofield.

—The last dance of the season given by the Newport Naval Reserves took place Monday evening at the state armory. The drill hall was decorated with flags and presented a pretty appearance. A novelty was the placing of the orchestra on a raised platform in the centre, so that its music could be better heard in all parts of the hall. Franklin C. Parsonage, Arthur H. Tilley, George C. Williams and Charles Moon, Jr., were the committee in charge.

ABLE HELPERS FOR STATESMEN.

Many Senators Have Efficient Secretaries Who Do Their Work.

Wallace Bassford, a Political Associate of Champ Clark, Signs Most of His Letters.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Every man in public life should have an understudy, or at least a man who can take hold of his political business and take care of it during his absence or illness. Many men owe their continued success in public life to the fact that they have some efficient man looking after their interests. There are several United States Senators who would not know where to turn were it not for the men who have full and complete knowledge of their affairs and can answer every letter and attend to all business save only that which is performed in the Senate chamber.

Up to the time he left the Senate Senator Hale of Main had such a man in the late Pitman Pulsifer. The same is true of Senator Frye, for whom Woodbury Pulsifer attends to all business and has made it possible for Maine to have the services of her venerable senior Senator even when he has been confined to his home by illness.

Joseph A. Breckons has such a grasp of the official affairs of Senator Warren that the latter can look after his vast business interests and still satisfactorily attend to his Senatorial duties. John J. Hannan is almost indispensable to Senator La Follette.

For 18 years Wallace Bassford has been associated with Champ Clark and so well does he know the political interests of the Speaker that Mr. Clark does not sign more than 15 per cent of all the letters that are sent out from his room, nor does he ever read half the mass of correspondence that is piled into the Speaker's room. There are many other men in public life who lean heavily upon some bright and intelligent assistant in caring for public and political affairs.

Senator Sutherland of Utah tells a story to show how he changed his mind when he was quite a young man. It was the first Christmas after he was married, and he went about looking into different shops seeking a present which he thought would suit Mrs. Sutherland. Finally he saw a sealskin coat in a window which he thought she ought to have. He went in and priced it. When the clerk said $500 the young benedict nearly collapsed.

"I think I compromised on a plush album costing $2.50," said the Utah Senator in telling the story.

"I really think I have that album yet," remarked Mrs. Sutherland.

While the war between whiskers and bald heads continues to rage, evidence on one side or the other is being gathered. A baldheaded scout, pursuing Mr. Justice Hughes, who has brought more whiskers to the supreme bench than any man in a quarter of a century, traced him to a barber shop recently and really though he obtained a big chunk of evidence for his side. If Hughes should sacrifice those whiskers it would mean much to the bald-headed end of the game. And so he asked an attendant at the door of the shop:

"Is Mr. Justice Hughes in there?"

"Yes, sir."

"What keeps him so long? Is he having his whiskers shaved off?" These queries were made with much eagerness.

"No, sir; just trimmed. Most clean shaven men don't know it; but, you see, it is harder work and takes a much longer time to trim Justice Hughes's whiskers than it would to swipe 'em clean off with a nice sharp razor."

An advocate of the farmers was talking to the Senate finance committee, and Senator Stone of Missouri sought to show that there were more editors, officeholders, bankers and business men in the delegation than farmers. And he came pretty near doing it too. In reply to a question as to bankers the farmer advocate said:

"Let me tell you, gentlemen, that the last gold brick sold in Minneapolis for $25,000 was sold to a country banker. You see, there are men who are both bankers and farmers, and sometimes it is hard to distinguish them."

The new assistant Secretary of the Treasury, Robert O. Bailey, has introduced a little scheme in regard to men who make recommendations for the appointment of friends to office which is interesting. As soon as the Congressman or other man gets through Bailey turns to a phonograph, gives the date and name of visitor and repeats as nearly as he can everything the visitor has said. He files the phonograph roll away for future reference. Occasionally there are men who do not like the method and beg off after having made a recommendation.

The Cooks who have used the Single Damper of the Crawford Ranges will never go back to the troublesome two-damper range

The cost of the food spoiled by mistakes in regulating the ordinary two-damper ranges amounts to a large sum.

The Single Damper of the Crawford affords absolute fire and oven control by one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "cheek," the range does the rest.

The Oven of the Crawford has cup-joint heat flues which heat everywhere alike and make it the quickest and surest of bakers.

The Two Hods (patented) in the base—one for ashes instead of the old clumsy ash pan—one for coal, is a great trouble-saving feature.

NAVAL PARADE THE FEATURE.

by the choir and congregation and the benediction by the chaplain.

When the service was concluded the Grand Army filed out and took places in carriages to join the line for the parade, the escort waiting in formation on Broadway for the veterans, with arrangements made for a prompt moving. It was slightly past the hour, 3 o'clock, set in the program, but there was little delay, only that occasioned by the veterans and their guests in entering the carriages.

The Big Parade.

The parade, as usual, was worth traveling miles to see and apparently there were a large number of strangers in town to see it. The weather had been threatening and many who worked in the cemeteries in the morning had wet feet, but when the route of march in the afternoon was taken the heavens fairly beamed upon the occasion.

The presence of the landing parties from the battleships was a welcome addition to the line. Past Commander James H. Hampton of the Grand Army was in command and Colonel Herbert Bliss was adjutant. A platoon of police under Sergeant Leary gave the procession the official municipal stamp.

The forts paraded a battalion of coast artillery, four companies, commanded by Major Delamere Skerrett, the battalion being headed by the post band from Fort Adams. Next came the naval brigade, commanded by Lieutenant Commander R. Z. Johnston of the Training Station, with Mate William McKay as adjutant. The first brigade was composed of battalions from flagship Connecticut and the Michigan, a band, four companies and a hospital detail from each. The second detail comprised the apprentice seaman brigade from the Training Station of 10 companies, two bands, a bugle corps and the ambulance.

The Second division, Rhode Island Naval Militia, was the next organization in line, with Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas Camp, Spanish War Veterans on its left. The Newport Municipal Band headed the Newport Artillery Company, the special escort to Dawton-Warren Post, No. 6, Grand Army of the Republic, in carriages, with army, navy, federal and civic officials following in turn.

In the Cemetery.

When the command, "Forward March," was given after the exercises at the church the Fort Adams band struck up the regulation quickstep and the route of march was covered speedily, without a halt until the right of the line reached the entrance to the cemetery. The regulars from the army and navy then formed, battalion front, in a line on one side of streets which reached from the Island cemetery gate on Warner street down Thames to Coddington street. The Municipal Band, Newport Artillery, Naval Reserves, Camp Thomas and the carriages then completed the march. This last stage of the route was at funeral step, and the troops drawn up in line saluted as this portion of the procession passed.

The Grand Army having passed into the cemetery, the line disbanded, the various battalions making their way to their stations and ships.

Concluding Ceremonies.

At the Soldiers and Sailors plot the organizations took their usual positions, except that the Spanish War Veterans closed in on the place usually occupied by the Grand Army, since nearly all of the latter were required at the headstones of the dead who lie in the plot.

Here the usual ceremonies were performed, including prayer by the chaplain, the decorating of the graves, the firing of three volleys by the Naval Reserves and the sounding of taps.

The line re-formed, the march was again taken up to the Soldiers and Sailors monument on Broadway, where the flag was raised to full staff and saluted.

The veteran organizations were then escorted to Grand Army hall, where as usual the Women's Relief Corps was in waiting with a bountiful collation. Coffee, sandwiches and cake were served by willing workers as if there was no end and the hungry veterans proved good eaters. After the supper Commander W. S. Bailey called the gathering to order and asked for remarks from a few, as a fitting end of Memorial Day, 1911.

The Singing by the Children.

One of the most interesting features of the day's observance was the singing by the children of the Lenthal School as the procession passed. At many places along the route there were large groups of spectators, but Bellevue avenue had the biggest gathering, with Touro Park as its centre. Here the school children were grouped and made a pretty picture in light dresses, flowers and flags. Mr. Henry W. Clarke, the veteran principal, was in charge, assisted by Janitor Francis G. Wilbar and Miss Gertrude Sullivan, assistant teacher. Patrolman Casey had difficulty in keeping the space about the children clear.

As the line passed the different organizations saluted, and as the veterans marched by the children sang "The Battle Hymn of Freedom," "Marching through Georgia" and ed. White and Blue." As the veterans reached the spot every man doffed his hat in recognition of the unusual compliment by the children, and as the army and navy and civic officers passed a salute was given by those in the carriages. The children continued their singing after the procession had passed, much to the enjoyment of the spectators who gathered about them. Then they were photographed and dismissed, well satisfied with their share in the tribute to the veterans of the war.

The Landing of the Sailors and Soldiers.

The landing of the detachments from the battleships at the City dock at Long wharf furnished an interesting sight for many. A detail of midshipmen was on hand early to see that the dock was kept clear and several times found it necessary to speak sharply to boating parties which attempted to come ashore there.

It was 2:20 when one of the Connecticut's big cutters in command of Lieutenant Commander L. A. Cotten, came alongside, towing three smaller cutters, containing four companies of seamen and hospital apprentices. They formed immediately and took their station a short distance up the wharf, to wait for the rest. The Michigan's battalion, in charge of Lieutenant Frank T. Evans, followed a few minutes after and joined the Connecticuts, making in all about 600 men in line. The officers were dress and seamen blues uniforms.

Lieutenant Silas H. Hazard of the Newport Artillery, and to Commander Hampton, acted as escort to the church. As the line crossed Thames street cheers were given from the windows of the Chief Petty Officers' Club, from which hung an immense flag. A brigade of apprentice seamen from the Training Station re-inforced the line at the junction of Long wharf and Thames street, in charge of Lieutenant L. Minot.

The troops from Fort Adams and Fort Greble, disembarked at the Government Landing from steamer Richard Arnold, a few minutes before the arrival of the sailors and marched out Broadway, Major Delamere Skerrett commandig and Second Lieutenant E. J. W. Ragsdale as adjutant.

Notes of the Day.

At noon salutes were fired in honor of the day from Fort Adams, the Naval Training Station and battleships Connecticut and Michigan. That at Fort Adams was fired in rapid succession, while the naval salutes were of 21 guns, at intervals of one minute.

Ex-Mayor Frederick P. Garrettson, representing the Rhode Island Society, Sons of the Revolution, placed a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses on the grave of Chevalier De Ternay, who commanded the French fleet, which came to the aid of the American colonists in the war of the Revolution, and who died here and was buried in Trinity churchyard.

There was a general display of flags about the city. Some were flown at half and others at full staff, the former following the example of the army as shown at Fort Adams and the latter that of the navy, at the Training and Torpedo Stations and the Government Landing.

The management of the Colonial Theatre paid tribute to the passing veterans in a novel way. As the carriages containing the Grand Army men passed a large flag which had hung inconspicuously across the street was unfurled and let down a shower of lilacs. An ivy wreath at half-staff added to the effectiveness of the idea.

The line was forced to come to an abrupt stop once, when the United States mail wagon came up from the Wickford boat at 4 o'clock. Patrolman Wilcox gave the signal to give the carrier right of way.

Admiral Robley D. Evans saw the procession from the piazza of Mrs. R. W. Howard's residence on Kay street, together with Mr. and Mrs. Harford Powel, Mr. D. LeRoy Dresser and a few other friends.

An interesting feature of the parade was the number of Newporters who had prominent stations in the line. Mate William McKay, Chief Gunner Henry Ernest, Lieutenant Thompson and others were warmly applauded as quickly as their friends recognized them. At the corner of Touro and Kay streets, while the band had stopped playing, a party of naval men and their wives broke the silence by vigorously clapping their hands.

Comrade Peter Seniot of Camp Thomas said he came 3,000 miles to take part in the parade. Until recently he has been chief master-at-arms on the Pensylvania on the Pacific coast, but he has just been transferred to the Training Station and reported in time to be here for the day.

The Naval Reserves decorated the grave of their only deceased comrade since its organization, Seaman Charles Brown, who was killed by a fall at the coal mines. A wreath was provided and an armed detail, with wreath bearers, marched to the City cemetery and performed the duty.

Local musicians playing in a line where regular bandsmen sat the step have their troubles, and in consequence the paraders within hearing have theirs also. Somehow civilian bands seem to find it impossible to hit the quick, swinging regulation step which makes marching easy and covers ground so fast.

One of the party of women who participated in the strewing of flowers on the water proved a poor sailor, as she was made seasick by standing on the float.

Steamer Mount Hope came down the bay with an excursion party. The Providence line brought good crowds, running cars as double-headers during the day, and the steam trains were well patronized. A large number of people came to town in automobiles also.

Despite the weather, the efforts of the Old Colony railway to awaken Massachusetts people to the fact that Newport was to have a fine parade were effective. It rained hard up the line in the morning, yet a large number braved the elements and came to Newport to see such a show as they never see in their own cities. People from Brockton and Taunton were recognized and of course Fall River sent its quota.

FOR WILLIAM STICKNEY.

Memorial Service at Trinity Church for an Engineer Who Died in Guatemala.

A memorial service was held Tuesday morning at Trinity Church for the late William Stickney of New York, who died in Guatemala Saturday. The burial ritual of the Protestant Episcopal Church was read by Rev. William L. Essex, the assistant rector. Among those in attendance were Mrs. Albert Stickney, mother of the deceased; his brother, Albert Stickney; Mr. and Mrs. William Sergeant Kendall, the latter a sister; Miss Kendall, Mrs. Albert Stickney, Harry A. Stickney, Mrs. John J. Chapman of New York and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Codman, M. G. Haughton and Miss Haughton of Boston.

The late Mr. Stickney graduated from Harvard University in 1900, spent three years at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology studying engineering and naval architecture, and completed his training in the latter branch at Glasgow University, Scotland. After spending three years at the Fore River Shipbuilding Company at Quincy, he left for Telluride, where he became interested in a mining proposition. There he met with an unfortunate accident while riding and fractured his skull. From the effects of his injuries he never completely recovered.

In November, 1909, he joined the engineering force of the Panama canal, but as the work entailed too severe a strain on him, he became indentified in February of this year with the United Fruit Company, in whose service he was when he died.

While at Harvard, Mr. Stickney was a member of the Hasty Pudding Club, Zeta Psi and Porcellian clubs, and he was also a member of the Tennis and Racquet Club of Boston.

THE GALAHAD CLUB'S ANNIVERSARY.

Monday evening the Galahad Club of Trinity Church celebrated its eleventh anniversary, about 75 members and friends being present. The object of the dance was to bring together the old members who have left the city, and in many cases married. Of the original knights, 20 in number, two, Robert Benson and Stephen E. Gratrix, have died.

The hall was attractively decorated with club banners and red hangings and between the dances there was a cotillon. Miss Mary Palmer leader. The chaperones were Mrs. William J. Cozzens and Mrs. Hubbard. After the dancing to the music of McCloskey's orchestra, ice cream and cake were served. The committee in charge were James P. Cozzens, Ralph R. Barker, Jr., and Carl Jurgens.

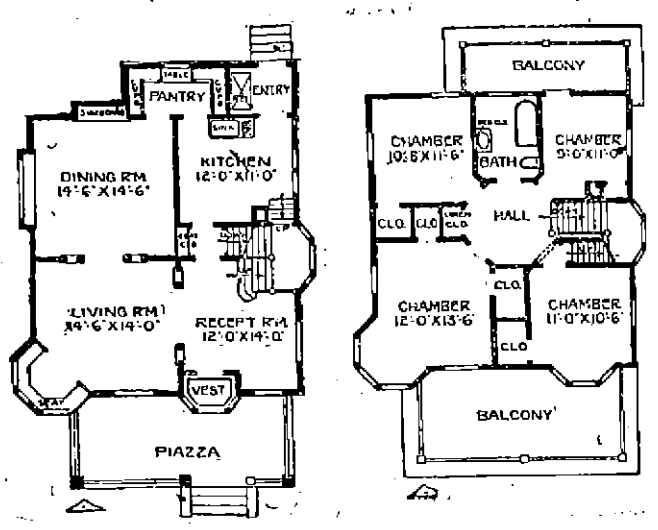

The original members of the Galahad Club were Ralph R. Barker, Jr., J. Everett Benson, Robert Benson, J. Allen Boone, Eugene I. Brown, James P. Cozzens, Seth DeBlois, James A. Easton, Laurie A. Goffe, Kenneth Grant, Stephen E. Gratrix, Frank J. Greene, Carl Jurgens, LeRoy Kauil, Harry B. Landers, Benjamin Reynolds, William D. Riggs, Harry T. Scott, Abner L. Slocum and George B. Weaver.

LESSONS OF THE DAY.

later year when the good ship Hartford with the same gallant commander in its rigging steams into Mobile Bay.

Now comes that July of '63, the most glorious since the year of Independence, for to the anxious North comes the news of Vicksburg and Gettysburg. Nevermore shall a divided Confederacy be re-united! Nevermore shall the North fear an invasion!

Thus picture after picture falls on the screen of memory; thus come sword and fire, victory and defeat, and death so often that it makes the heart grow faint; but we are aroused to new life as the telegraph hurries this message northward: The Union campfires flash along the heights from Lookout Mountain to Missionary Ridge, Chattanooga is saved, and Bragg is in utter rout.

Now it is the year '64, and the hearts of us at home are divided; for we would be with the fathers marching with Sherman from Atlanta to the sea, and also with the brothers threading that Wilderness whose very trees seem to shower shot and shell on their defenseless heads. The fathers carry havoc and ruin to the workshop, granary and arsenal of the Confederacy; while the brothers with a grim determination characteristic of Grant, in ever shortening coils, circle by the left flank about their prey until at Appomattox the vital breath is shecked, and the Confederacy is no more.

Then comes that Grand Review at Washington. Aye, grand indeed was that earthly pageant! You veterans recall it with pride, with the joy of successful accomplishment, and with the anticipation of home reunions; but could we lift the veil that limits our mortal vision, how sublime would be the Grand Review of that other army—the army of the dead.

Down the broad avenues of limitless space march its specter columns. At the head rides the commander-in-chief of army and navy, the first martyr President, the "Great Heart" of both North and South;

"Whose life shone like a splendid star
To fill his people's hearts with flame;
Who never sought for gold or fame,
But gave himself without a price,
A willing, humble sacrifice.
An erring nation's Paschal lamb,
The great, gaunt, patient Abraham."

Behind him with noiseless tread march 300,000 heroic spirits in whose straining throats "the battle cry dies unformed and incomplete." Here are boys and men; here are all grades of society, the rich and poor, the educated and illiterate, the white man and the black man, the native and foreign-born. Here are those who found quick death at the cannon's mouth, who wasted away in prison or hospital, who yielded to insidious disease. 'Tis, in truth, a mixed and motley throng! In your mind's eye you veterans can see many a well known face, many a dear companion, as they pass in review. As, over the body of Caesar, Antony must pause for his heart to come back to him, so too your hearts have gone forth on the wings of memory, and I should pause until they return.

Since that day in '65 the wheels of time have rolled on for nearly half a century. It is difficult to realize that to a majority of those in audience the Civil war is as much ancient history as the War of 1812 was to you in 1861. Except on such a day as this even those who suffered in '61-65 find that they can recall the past with tearless eyes and with hearts inured to separation. As in the states of the Confederacy the fields laid waste by battle, steeped in blood, and torn by conflict, have grown green with grass and grain; as great highways when abandoned are overgrown and effaced, so the heart-wounds have healed, and with clearer vision the sacrifices and achievements of the past can be measured. We can repeat with Grecian pride:

"Glorious their doom, and beautiful their lot.
Their tomb an altar, men from tears refrain
To honor them; and praise, but mourn them not."

Lest we forget, however, the heroism and the sacrifices of these veterans, it is eminently fitting that once every year we should assemble here and for a moment re-live the olden days. Though time is fleeting, though wounds do heal, the nation must not forget that the Grand Army is now carrying the added burden of the weight of years. From the first the government, even when staggering under an immense debt and beset by the gravest political questions, has tried to redeem its promises made in the heat of the struggle for life itself. Much, very much, has been done in pensions, in homes, in preferred applications for various positions of trust; but now, as the half-century anniversaries are beginning, even those veterans who were under age in '61 have passed the three-score years and are approaching the Bible limit of the extra ten.

No one of their generation, or of our own, would willingly see him who preserved the Union know a cheerless old age. We must recognize the fact that the soldier who can show a wound is not the only sufferer. The physical, nervous and mental strain of warfare must have weakened and shortened the lives of all who were in the thick of the fray. We have much to say of our inalienable rights; but we must not forget our imperative duties, and one of the latter is the recognition of the needs of the Grand Army in these later days of their old age.

Let us all return for a moment to the symbolic triangle that lies before this church. It is an ornament and an honor to the city, and a fitting tribute to the Grand Army. May I be pardoned for suggesting an addition? Unless in the loving mantle of grass, or in the beauty of the flowers, or in the gracious protection of the drooping branches of the elm, woman is mortified, one great element of success in the crucial test of '61-'65 is not memorialized. With the honors of her father and her brother, of her husband and her son, should not at least a bas-relief forever perpetuate her share in the heroic sacrifices and sufferings?

Man, I assure you, had no monopoly of patriotism and self-denial. Woman toiled at home without the excitement of the camp and the field, bore privation and separation in anxious suspense, cared for the family, and with untiring devotion forwarded to the front countless boxes and barrels packed with every conceivable delicacy and necessity that loving hearts could suggest. Woman also left home and kindred and at the bedside of the maimed and dying, or on the field of battle 'mid death and destruction, showed a daring and a devotion unsurpassed by man. She in disguise even took upon herself the actual duties of the soldier or won the thanks of the government by her service in securing information at the risk of her life and of a shameful death. In the Relief Corps she still finds her sphere of duty in caring for those aged veterans who require help in their declining days. Thus she fulfills the poet's ideal:

"born to nurse,
And to soothe, and to solace, to help and to heal"

The sick world that leans on her."
Her exalted sentiment, her unwaver-

How One Washerwoman Was Converted to the Fels-Naptha Way.

Anty Drudge—"Why, bless my soul! Mrs. Old School, the washerwoman has seen the light at last and has adopted the Fels-Naptha way of washing."

Grocer's Boy—"She was forced to it, Anty Drudge. Mrs. Millionaire, her best customer, told her that if she didn't use Fels-Naptha she'd take her washing away. Was tired, she said, of having her clothes come back all yellow and some with streaks of dirt still in them."

A generation or so ago, if a woman had an errand she walked—she had to, there was no other way.

Later she could do it in half the time by riding. Now she can do it almost instantly, by telephone.

That's Progress, and Progress is made possible by science.

Fels-Naptha is science applied to the washday problem, and it's results are just wonderful.

Formerly washday was a time of sickening odors, back-breaking labor, a disordered house and the severest test on the clothes. This was necessary. There was no other way.

The Fels-Naptha washday—the scientific washday—isn't a washday at all in the old sense; merely an incident in the routine of household duties.

And if directions on the red and green wrapper are followed, the result is certain.

NOTICE!
I beg to inform the public in general in regard to the pressing of garments. You should be just as particular as to who presses your garments as you are as to the one who makes them, because the fine shaping put in the garment by a skillful tailor can be taken out, by a would-be tailor with a professional title, in less than one minute. I want to warn the ladies that all tailors are not LADIES' TAILORS, therefore if you wish to have your garments pressed by a real tailor call on

EXCEPTIONS OVERRULED.

Badnelly Case Sent Back to the Superior Court for Imposition of Sentence.

The supreme court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice Edward C. Dubois, overrules the defendant's exception in the case of the City of Newport vs. Joseph Badnelly and sends the case back to the superior court in this county for sentence upon the jury's verdict of guilty. Badnelly was tried and sentenced at the October term in 1909, under an indictment for assault with intent to rape, the jury rendering a verdict of guilty. The defendant took the case to the supreme court on a bill of exceptions after the presiding justice in the superior court had refused a new trial. The case was argued some time ago. The supreme court, in its decisions, upholds the rulings of the trial justice and upon the questions of fact passed upon by the jury, says:

"There was evidence tending to support the charge against the defendant, evidence of inclination and opportunity, of early complaint by the prosecutrix, corroborative evidence of physical objective symptoms, condition of clothing, etc. The defense was an alibi. The evidence was conflicting and therefore it was the duty of the jury to pass upon the veracity of the various witnesses and the credibility of the testimony given by them. In the absence of any evidence to the contrary it is to be presumed that they faithfully performed that duty. They were in a position and condition suitable for its performance. Their attention was undoubtedly attracted by the gravity of the occasion and their senses were stimulated by the desire to ascertain the truth in a case involving a grave charge against one of their own sex. A careful examination of the transcript does not reveal any error on the part of the jury."

TEN MEN QUALIFY.

Providence Revolver Club Holds Annual Medal and Qualification Match at the Redwood Farm Range.

Once a year the Providence Revolver Club has a shoot for the National Rifle Association medal, and as usual met on Memorial day at the Redwood range in Portsmouth. Fifteen members turned out, the largest number yet, and made some exceptionally good scores. The day in many respects was fine for shooting, as until the afternoon there was no bright sun and the little shower only made the air cooler and clearer. Later in the afternoon the sun came out strong and those not accustomed to sudden changes in light suffered most.

Of the 14 men who finished, 10 qualified for the marksman button, which is a pretty good showing for a club which comes together only once or twice a year. The best shot of the day was Freeman, who made three good scores and took the medal; also the prize for the best total at 500 yards. The next man was Parkhurst, who took the club medal, for the best score other than the medal winner. Then came Coultess, who won the next prize, a rifle range telescope, and closely following him was Peckham, one point behind Powel, two points below him, Brooks and Henderson. Almy and Biesel had trouble at 500 yards with the light and both fell badly at this range. The other men are new at this game, some of them never using a service rifle before, but making fair scores for their first trial. Thurston and Easton made good scores at the shorter ranges, but fell on the long. H. H. Powel shot well and qualified. Allen and Arnold had trouble all through the match. The scores:

CHANGE IN ARMY UNIFORMS.

War Department Decides to Adopt Woolen Instead of Worsted in Interest of Economy.

From the standpoint of economy the War Department has decided to clothe the army in woolen instead of worsted uniforms. All the woolen manufacturers in the country have been invited to send the department samples of the olive drab woolen cloths which they can offer. Officials declare that the change will result in a saving of $500,000 yearly.

The woolen cloth, it is added, is softer and cheaper than worsted and has the advantage of affording a wider range of competition. As soon as the existing contracts with the American Woolen Company and the Peace Dale Manufacturing Company for worsted uniforms expire no more will be purchased.

ADDITIONAL DISPLACEMENTS.

New Destroyers Authorized by Congress to Have Increased Space for Liquid Fuel.

The eight new destroyers which were authorized by the last Congress will be 1,000 tons displacement. The destroyers, recently launched, of the Drayton class, displace 750 tons. The increase will be utilized almost entirely in providing additional space for liquid fuel. It having been determined that the most profitable change may be made in that line.

The speed of the destroyers will not be increased. By the additional 250 tons displacement there will be gained an endurance of 2,000 miles. The 750-ton destroyer possesses an endurance of 4,000 miles at 10 knots, and the 1,000-ton destroyer will be capable of 4,000 miles at 15 knots, or nearly 6,000 miles at 10 knots.

TRANSFER POSTPONED.

Admiral Osterhaus Unable to Relieve Admiral Schroeder Before June 8.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Winthrop Monday issued orders to Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, commanding the Atlantic fleet, detaching him from duty in command of the fleet upon the reporting of his relief, Rear Admiral Hugo Osterhaus. Rear Admiral Schroeder will be assigned to duty in connection with the General Board. Rear Admiral Osterhaus will remain in Washington, to attend sessions of the "packing board," until about June 8, when he will come to Newport for the transfer of commands.

LESSONS OF THE DAY.

ing faith, and her calm resignation in the hour of death, certainly are worthy of some visible memorial in this sacred triangle.

In that great speech of Webster, which ends with "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable," he prays that his last feeble and lingering glance may behold the ensign of the republic with not a stripe erased or polluted, nor a single star obscured; bearing for its motto no such miserable interrogatory as "What is all this worth?" At the risk of seeming mercenary—even "miserable," will you kindly inscribe on your battle flags for only a moment this interrogatory—"What is all this worth?"

The war withdrew from the workers of the country more than a million men. Half of this number became crippled survivors. A great host of dependent kindred looked to the country for support. A fair land, nearly one-fifth of the country at that time, was overrun by fire, famine and death. The government groaned under a debt of nearly three billions of dollars—to say nothing of at least five other billions that must be included in the cost. The 300,000 slain in the Union army alone equal the combined population of Newport, Providence and Pawtucket. Think of a great tidal wave engulfing them!

Such statements are in truth beyond our comprehension; but do they make the cost too dear? Behold a prosperous, united country—the goal of the oppressed of all other lands! Stem the current of the Mississippi for full 3,000 miles, and even then far to the northwest like one seventh of our continental area—that new Eldorado, the land of furs, lumber and gold. Speed westward with the morning sun for four hours and you will reach only the Pacific coast. Travel a second four hours and you will see the last of the Aleutian islands. Hasten on and you will find in the distant ocean, so much further that "west has met the east," the isles half a world away where floats the stufry flag of our Union.

All this is our land; all this is under Lincoln's government—the government of, by and for the people. States once discordant are as much within the family fold as are those of New England. On the flag are not only the original 13 stars, but 33 more. A united people, more than 90,000,000 in number, living in peace and plenty, are a partial answer to the question.

But it is useless, however, for me to attempt to answer Webster's "interrogatory." No one can estimate the blessings we enjoy in these re-United States. Our free press, free schools, free church, free government, cannot be appraised in dollars and cents, or in words within the vocabulary of man. Nevertheless, these veterans, when they stand a little later in yonder cemetery by the graves of their companions, may truthfully say: "What you have, what you are, what you hope to be, you owe in great part to these men who died that you might live."

It is for us on this Memorial Day to make our grateful acknowledgments and to resolve that our republic shall give the lie to that old-time saying that "republics are ungrateful."

You men of the Grand Army are types of other men who through the ages have dreamed dreams of a government of the people and have made it possible by their contributions for succeeding generations to build more securely. Long has been the struggle, slow the growth, and today we are too apt to rejoice in our harvest and to forget their sowing.

Were you to stand with me at the mouth of a mighty river, a natural question would be: Whence comes this flood of water? Is there a vast reservoir beyond the hills, or does some mountain glacier dissolve to give it birth? Let us ascend the stream. Here and there, on right and left, incoming branches tempt us from the main current; but on we go. The river is narrower; the water is shallower, the channel grows rougher. Now we begin to climb the hillside; we follow a brook's wild course; we come to a little dell whereon from beneath a dark, overhanging rock a tiny thread of silver leaps up to greet the flower that lovingly nods its head in welcome.

The secret is ours. Thousands of little springs, hundreds of rivulets, tens of branches, one grand unit—the broad, deep, dynamic river. Thus has it been with the growth of true democracy—not a special creation, but an evolution. Bryant says of Freedom:

"Thy birth-right was not given by human hands;
Thou wert twin-born with man."

Grouted, but Freedom's arch enemy Tyranny has ever been afield. Bitter has been the fight since that first Memorial Day in the spring 1491 years before Christ, when Moses and Miriam sang their jubilant song of a delivered people at the Passover Feast, a feast that is to this day a symbol of physical, mental and moral freedom.

Since that remote Memorial Day the narrow, feeble stream of Freedom has been flowing America-ward in its tantalizing course of more than twice 1,400 years. At times it lost itself in the desert waste of feudalism and tyranny; but gaining new strength here and there it crossed the English Channel and swelled into a vigorous stream. There the jury system, the Magna Charta, the House of Commons, the Petition of Rights, the Commonwealth, the Bill of Rights, the freedom of the press, added their contributions; but meantime the powerful current swept across the Atlantic, bearing on its tide the principles and privileges that underlie our own government. To Freedom's river scarlet with the blood of martyrs and saints America has added her tributaries, and today we point with pride to the majestic sweep of waters. Methinks you veterans will rejoice to know that you helped to increase the flow, that you undammed the waters in the Southland after they had been obstructed for full 200 years.

It is proper, then, while we are paying honor to you men of '61, that we should also twine a garland in memory of those who opened the springs of Freedom's river, who dug the watercourse and set the waters free.

Every year new obstructions must be cleared away, the detritus removed, the channel deepened, the flow increased, and the watershed conserved. You men of the Grand Army have every right to say to us: Nevermore, save by inspiration, should you expect us to undertake this work. The generation that never knew Lincoln or Grant, Sherman or Sheridan, Farragut or Porter, must take up the burdens of the present day even as we did those of yesterday.

The Roman poet declared:

"It is sweet and glorious to die for one's country."

The sentiment is sublime; but as this very poet ran away from the battle of Philippi, he evidently did not believe it. Therefore I'll dare to revise the verse and to make it read: It is sweet and glorious to live for one's country. By live I mean work. By work I mean not only that sweat of the brow which provides for the physical well-being of man, not only that active mind and stirring soul which make for his mental and spiritual power; but I enlarge work to include civic service in those great fields of usefulness that are just beginning to be tilled—particularly in the development of a social conscience. Governor Woodrow Wilson says: "A patriot is a man who has a surplus of energy to spend for the welfare of the community outside of himself."

In no other year since man has proclaimed himself cultured and Christianized has the demand been so great for this kind of living, for this kind of work, and for this kind of patriotism. Since that day when Cain raised his hand against his brother, man has been born on a battlefield.

"Nor may man on his shield
Ever rest, for his foe is ever afield,
Danger ever at hand, till the armed
Archangel
Sound o'er him the trump of earth's final evangel."

The foe of man is nature; but his victories are so many and so great that he begins to breathe freely. Nevertheless by scientific researches, by industrial resources and by curative and preventive measures he never ceases to strive for greater conquests.

The foe of man is his fellow man; but he is beginning to realize that his belief in the eternal fatherhood of God and in the universal brotherhood of man makes impossible the old-time war of aggression and absorption, whether it be at home or abroad, whether it be in industry, commerce, or government.

The foe of man is himself. The competition for industrial supremacy for social position and for civic preferment is now so intense that man has good reason to fear himself. Can he withstand the temptation, can he live true to the right as he knows it? Can he become lord of himself?

These are the foes of 1911, as they will be of the years to come; but signs of growth on every side make us hopeful and optimistic. Note as proof the sensitiveness of the people to suffering, to injustice and to illegal methods. I admit that the cases of wrong are far too numerous but in the indignation of the public, in the national organizations of citizens throughout the country for fighting abuses, and in the attitude of our best papers and magazines, we see a widespread and growing power which designing men recognize and which they are beginning to fear. The reforms outlined in the proposed and actual legislation of state and national governments show the tendencies of the times. It is not possible for me to make even a catalogue of these prophesies of a better future.

Permit me, however, while we are honoring the heroes of war, to add a word for the constructive heroes of peace. We delight to tell of changing the sword into the pruning hook—a very simple matter for any blacksmith; but the sword stands for the contention of individuals and of peoples, whereas the pruning hook means economic co-operation. In these two we have symbolized personal motives versus social feelings—the individual versus the community. What a vast difference!

For this changed viewpoint we are slowly being educated by those men and women who have seen visions of a better day. Therefore a third time I return into the triangle before the church, and I wonder if some day we shall see by the soldier and sailor, near the bas-relief to woman, and beneath the flag, a memorial to those who have given themselves to the numberless causes that have conserved not only our natural resources, but have conserved man himself.

Need I call by name him who has raised the negro in the South to the status of a skilled laborer, or him who razed to the ground pestilential and pestiferous tenements in New York city, or him who cleaned its streets or on a later day freed a great island from fearsome disease, or him who fought in the courts of a western city the cause of the wayward child, or her who went down into the most hopeless district of Chicago and there made her home the centre of a new life, or her who is honored by a monument in the capitol in Washington?

I mention these men and women only as types that rank high in the true aristocracy of the new century—that aristocracy which answers the call of human needs, the new Grand Army of service.

There is today so much of righteous unrest, so much of wholesome dissatisfaction, so much of divine aspiration in the heart of man, that this earth of ours must be a battlefield for years to come—not a war of brute strength for mere survival or for aggrandizement, but a humane struggle for a more equitable sharing in the necessaries and the luxuries, in the privileges and the opportunities of this world.

Both in devising ways and means, and in accomplishing the civic, social and economic tasks, there is so great a field for patriotic effort and sacrifice that even you veterans may envy the new generation. There is no need of sighing for new worlds to conquer; for as the late Colonel Higginson has well said: "The great works of humanity are still to be accomplished; the great book written; the great picture painted; the great city or nation governed." If this generation, however, can hasten the day when man's three foes—Dame Nature, his fellow man, and his own self, shall be subdued, then future ages will acknowledge their debt to it even as we do ours to you veterans and to that long line of martyr prophets and heroes who have paid the price of freedom and sealed it with their blood.

Could we behold
"The audience of unseen dead,
Who, even now, perchance, adown these aisles
Pass and re-pass with noiseless tread,
And in our faces look, and list to what is said;"

Could we ask them—What of the future? How eagerly with bated breath should we listen for their answer.

Methinks, voices well known to you veterans, voices of those who with you rushed afield, voices of those who with you bought with their own blood freedom for the slave, come to my ears and they say:

We see a fairer, happier country; and a more prosperous, more united people dwelling in a land of plenty.

We see throughout the length and breadth of the nation the heaven-ward-pointing spire of church, the belfry tower of school, the wide-open door of free library, and the forum of the democratic public hall.

We see these four inseparable educators of a free people organizing and supporting countless asylums and fraternal associations that proclaim the realization of the brotherhood of man.

We see floating over all these the dear old flag, symbolizing not only a union of states, but a union of all peoples in a sanctuary bearing for its legend not only "one from many" but one for all and all for one.

We proclaim you citizens who are now honoring us and our living associates the heirs of a sacred inheritance, and we assure you

"What eminence your country shall attain
In culture, or in useful arts, or power,
Is yours to say; for you are like the grain
Of mustard seed, or leaven within the flour.
And the great end shall come in some unreckoned hour."

SAVED BY HIS SPOUSE.

[Boston Transcript.]

"I tell you you can't beat my wife for presence of mind," said the man at the club proudly. "Listen to this. One day last week and old gossip of our neighborhood called, and I left her and wife alone in the parlor. An hour later, having the impression that our caller had departed, I bounced into the room with, 'So the old cat has gone, eh!' Well, say! as I lifted my eyes, there was the woman herself in front of me. But my wife—bless her—was there with the goods. 'Yes, dear,' she said calmly, 'I sent it to the cat's home in a basket first thing this morning.'"

EYES WOULD BURN AND STING

"It is just a year ago that my sister came over here to us. She had been here only a few weeks when her eyes began to be red, and to burn and sting as if she had sand in them. Then we used all of the home remedies. She washed her eyes with salt water, used hot tea to bathe them with, and bandaged them over night with tea leaves, but all to no purpose. She went to the drug store and got some salve, but she grew constantly worse. She was scarcely able to look in the light. At last she decided to go to a doctor, because she could hardly work any more. The doctor said it was a very severe disease, and if she did not follow his orders closely she might lose her eyesight. In the two and a half or three months that she went to the doctor, we could see very little improvement. Then we had read so much how people had been helped by Cuticura that we thought we would try it, and we cannot be thankful enough that we used it. My sister used the Cuticura Pills for purifying the blood, bathed only with Cuticura Soap, and at night after washing, she anointed her eyes very gently on the outside with the Cuticura Ointment. In one week the swelling was entirely gone from the eyes, and after a month, there was no longer any mucus or watering of the eyes. She could see better, and in six weeks she was cured." (Signed) Mrs. Julia Czepiesks, 2005 Utah St., St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25, 1910.

THERE IS A DIFFERENCE

Between Promises and Actual Results.

Promises won't overcome hair trouble. The manufacturers of Newbro's Herpicide promise nothing which is not justified by an intelligent use of this preparation. The desired end ultimately becomes an accomplished fact. This is the reason that Herpicide has thousands of satisfied friends all over the world.

By keeping the scalp clean and healthy and destroying the dandruff germ, Newbro's Herpicide makes beautiful hair. Herpicide prevents the hair from falling and allows it to grow unhindered and naturally except in cases of chronic baldness which is incurable.

One dollar size bottles are guaranteed by all druggists to do these things.

Send 10c in postage for sample and book to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

The Stable-Keeper Telephones

"WHAT'S the number? All right, I'll send a carriage around at ten sharp. Good-bye."

Many orders come to the livery-stable keeper over the telephone.

Not only that, but he frequently has occasion to call for assistance from out of town.

A wedding or funeral may overtax his supply of hacks.

Time is short, but the Bell Telephone Service, with its Local and Long Distance connections, saves the situation for the stable-keeper.

Here's Something New

No more ashes to lug. No clumsy pan to spill dust and dirt on the kitchen floor.

The Glenwood Ash Chute

solves the problem. It is located just beneath the grate and connected by a sheet iron pipe straight down through the kitchen floor to ash barrel in cellar. No part is in sight. Not a particle of dust can escape. Just slide the damper once each day and drop the ashes directly into the ash barrel.

The Dust Tight Cover

to barrel is another entirely new Glenwood idea and is very ingenious. The Ash Chute is sold complete with barrel and all connections, as illustrated, at a moderate price to fit any cabinet style Glenwood. This is only one of the splendid improvements of the Plain Cabinet Glenwood the Range without ornamentation or fancy nickel, "The Mission Style" Glenwood. Every essential refined and improved upon.

Up-To-Date Gas Attachments

This Range can be had with the latest and most improved Elevated or End Gas Range attachments. It has a powerful hot water front or for country use a large Copper Reservoir on the end opposite fire box. It can be furnished with fire box at either right or left of oven as ordered. When the Ash Chute cannot be used an Improved Ash Pan is provided.

CHICAGOAN IN GOOD FORM.

Charles Evans, Jr., Defeats Fry, a Good Player, at Golf at Prestwick.

PRESTWICK, Scotland, May 31.—Charles Evans, Jr., of the Edgewater Golf Club, Chicago, America's hope in the British amateur golf championship tournament being played on the Prestwick links today, worked his way into the group of 16 players left in the fifth round. In the fourth round this morning he defeated Sydney Fry of the Royal North Devon Club, four up and three to play. The Chicagoan was at the top of his form and easily vanquished his opponent. Fry was runner up in the championship a few years ago and is still considered one of the strongest players in the United Kingdom.

The sensation of the morning was the defeat of John Ball, seven times winner of the British amateur title, by a comparative outsider, R. W. Crummack of the Lytham Club, four up and two to play. H. L. Gaw of Philadelphia, who is entered from Lake Como, was beaten in the fourth round by Lionel Munn of the Royal Dublin Golf Club, two up and one to play.

"Chick" Evans was beaten by Bruce Pearce of Australia 1 up. 19 holes in the fifth round.

STRIKING LASTERS RETURN.

A. E. Little & Co. Employes at Work After Settlement of Differences.

LYNN, Mass., May 31.—The 70 lasters who have been on strike at the shoe factory of A. E. Little & Co. since April 5, returned to work today, pending a settlement of their differences with the firm by arbitration. The return of the lasters enabled more than 1,000 employes in other departments of the factory, who were made idle, to resume their work also.

AN AGREEMENT REACHED.

Pawtucket Plumbers and Employers Come to Terms.

PAWTUCKET, May 31.—An agreement was reached today between the plumbers of this city who went on strike May 1 and their employers, and the strikers returned to work. The plumbers, numbering about 100, demanded an increase from $3.50 while they had been receiving to $4 a day. By the compromise they will receive $3.75.

RESULT OF A HITCHCOCK RAID.

Trial of Rev. Norman Plass and Two Others for Defrauding Opens.

BOSTON, May 31.—An array of legal talent was present at the opening of the trial of Rev. Norman Plass, John T. Traphagan and Charles H. Brooks, charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, in the United States district court today before Justice Dodge. Judge Chester H. Krum of St. Louis, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, who represented the United States at The Hague fisheries hearing, and ex-Mayor John P. Feeney of Woburn, were in court to defend the three men. United States District Attorney Asa P. French and Assistant United States District Attorney William H. Garland represented the government. Most of the morning was given over to the drawing of a jury.

The trial is one of the results of Postmaster General Hitchcock's raids on alleged fraudulent stock investment concerns. The three men on trial were doing business at 85 Devonshire street under the name of the "Redeemable Investment Company." This concern was the holding company of the Santo Domingo Mining Company, the Boston & Canada Wheat Land Co., the Norman Plass Lumber Company and the Okanogan Development Company. The company's offices were raided October 13 last year.

Rev. Mr. Plass was formerly president of Washburn College, Topeka, Kansas. He was a personal friend of ex-Secretary of the Interior Richard A. Ballinger and it is alleged that the secretary's name was used on a letter of recommendation that was sent broadcast by the investment company, with the object of strengthening the company's credit.

After the jury had been impanelled the clerk read the indictment. This charges the defendants with misrepresenting the condition of the company, especially in reference to the redemption of half the stock. The redemption feature was relied on, it is charged, to attract investors.

The company was organized under the laws of Delaware, September 11, 1909, with a capital stock of $10,000,000 divided into 1,000,000 shares, at $10 par value per share. One half of this stock was redeemable up to the full value at any time, with interest at 6 per cent. Twenty five per cent of this stock was to be deposited with the National Shawmut Bank of Boston for redemption purposes and the fund was to be built up to at least $250,000. The government charges that the defendants did not intend to build up this redemption fund nor to sell this class of stock for cash, as was represented. A large number of shares, it is charged, was issued to Brooks and Traphagen without payment and was redeemed out of the redemption fund for the personal use and benefit of the three defendants. District Attorney French opened for the prosecution.

COURT HANDS DOWN DECISION.

A Holder of a Note Against Town or City Should Know All Conditions.

BOSTON, May 31.—A holder of a note against a town or a city in Massachusetts is required to know the full conditions under which the same is issued, according to a decision of the full bench of the supreme judicial court sent down today. The decision was in the case of Joseph E. Brown and others, who sued the city of Newburyport on a note for $25,000 made by the defaulting treasurer of that city, James V. Felker, who had also issued similar notes aggregating $80,000 to cover up the deficiencies in his accounts. The court ruled that the plaintiffs could not recover from the city, holding that the notes were defective because not approved by the committee on finance, as required by a vote of the city council; and also because the issuing of these notes exceeded the borrowing capacity of the city, a fact the court says, of which the plaintiff ought to have had knowledge before he discounted the notes.

ALLEN AND GRAHAM PRESENT.

Men Reported as "Manufacturers of Sentiment" at Reciprocity Hearing.

WASHINGTON May 31.—Whidden Graham, of the firm of Allen & Graham of New York, admitted to the Senate finance committee today that he was employed by the National Grange to oppose Canadian reciprocity. He declined to answer whether his concern was working for any other interests in opposition of the bill. Graham also admitted that neither he nor Allen was a lawyer but that they assisted manufacturers and others in securing the enactment or defeat of legislation, by preparing for them literature and pamphlets for circulation.

"I am not a lobbyist," he insisted in answer to a query by Senator Stone. "And yet you receive fees," commented Senator Williams, "for writing articles for securing the enactment or defeat of legislation."

Graham launched into a violent attack on the newspaper of the country, much of which later was stricken from the records.

John H. Allen and Whidden Graham, of the firm of Allen & Graham, New York, are said to have been employed to "manufacture sentiment" among the farmers of the country in opposition to the agreement. Senator Stone declared that Allen and Graham were sending out, for some of the officers of the National Grange, literature warning farmers in all parts of the country that the reciprocity agreement would injure them, and asking them to contribute to the cause. Manufacturers also were asked for financial aid.

Before Allen and Graham were heard by the committee, N. J. Bachelder, president of the National Grange, made a statement declaring that Allen and Graham had "acted only under the direction of the legislative and executive committee of the National Grange."

"Are not many members of the Grange" inquired Senator Stone, "women, children and others who are not farmers?"

Mr. Bachelder said he did not have statistics to show. Senator Stone asked Mr. Bachelder to prepare a statement for the committee giving figures showing the membership of the Grange. He said that members were often carried for years after they had ceased to pay their annual dues.

"Did you employ Allen and Graham as legal advisers?" asked Senator Stone.

"Yes, to a certain extent," was the answer.

"I have conferred with them on matters pertaining to legislation. I think there is nothing on their letter head but 'Allen and Graham.'"

DIRECTORS' MAY MEETING.

American Tobacco Company Stock Sells Below Monday's Price.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Stock of the American Tobacco Company sold at $475 per share a few minutes after the curb market opened today. This is a decline of $25 from Monday's price. Later the stock sold down to $470. A regular meeting of the directors of the American Tobacco Company is scheduled for today. Directors say that while the company purposes to confirm with the decision of the Supreme Court, the process of re-adjustment must necessarily be slow, as the problems confronting them are involved.

Your kitchen sinks, the water closets and bowls and all other plumbing in your homes should be periodically disinfected. To do this perfectly and to kill positively all germs of disease, use two to three tablespoonfuls of to a pail of water. This amount makes a very active disinfectant.

A tablespoonful to a pail is sufficient for ordinary house cleaning, such as washing the paint, rugs and linoleums in order to insure perfect cleanliness and health.

The latter amount added to the bath keeps the skin clean and healthy and also prevents the invasion of any germs of disease, should there be existing scratches, cuts, chafes or abrasions.

Protection! Service! Council!

In every bank announcement a feature is made of the security it offers depositors.

This is commonplace and is no more than you have a legitimate right to expect.

Banking is based on security.

Our service extends beyond this element of security. It extends to meeting the depositors on intimate equitable lines, and our advice is at the disposal of our depositors, who are seeking for investment of their funds.

Do not hesitate to call on us in this essential.

This broad policy of co-operation is a new phase in the banking business and marks the first real advance in twentieth century banking.

The invitation to call in and discuss business with us is extended cordially to the ladies.

STOCK MARKET UNSETTLED.

Indications of "Open Market" in Steel and Iron and Tobacco the Cause.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Indications of an "open market" in the steel and iron trade and the Supreme Court decision in the American Tobacco case, which is regarded on the Exchange as more drastic than that against the Standard Oil, unsettled the stock market to an unusual degree. Within the first hour concentrated selling of United States Steel caused a sharp drop all around. On the "curb" American Tobacco Common opened at 500, unchanged from Monday's closing, but by 10:30 the stock had fallen 75 points to 425, and later dropped 82 points to 418. On the Stock Exchange dealings in the 4 and 6 per cent tobacco bonds were the most active on the list, the 4's advancing at one time to 93½, a gain of 8½, and the 6's falling off 7 points. Consolidated Tobacco 4's, one of the American Tobacco Company subsidiaries, declined over 5 points, with declines of 3 and 4 points respectively in American Snuff preferred and American Tobacco preferred. Further weakness continued in the afternoon. All the standard stocks were heavy.

OLD RULING DENOUNCED.

One Regarding the Dismissal of Government Employes Opposed.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—A ruling made by President Roosevelt in 1905, and described as providing for the dismissal of any government employe at the request of the head of his department, was denounced yesterday at the seventh annual state convention of the United International Association of Postal Clerks. A resolution protesting against the enforcement of any order which would "deprive men of the right of free speech and the right of petition for a redress of their grievances" was adopted.

DEMURRER TO BILL FILED.

A Question Over Right of Christian Science Church to Take Property.

BOSTON, May 31.—Attorney General Swift today filed a demurrer in the supreme judicial court to the bill in equity of Stephen A. Chase against Adam H. Dickey and others, which raises the question of the right of the directors of the Christian Science Church to take for the church, under the will of Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, valuable real estate held by the defendants. The attorney general claims that before the case proceeds further it is necessary that the heirs at law of Mrs. Eddy be joined as party defendants.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, May 31, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 67, American Beet Sugar 53¾, American Smelting and Refining 80¾, Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe 114¾, Brooklyn Rapid Transit 80, Canadian Pacific 239¾, Chesapeake & Ohio 83½, Chicago Mil & St. Paul 124½, Erie 33¾, Great Northern pfd. 130¾, Great Northern Ore Ctfs 62, Interborough-Met. 18¾, Interborough-Met. pfd. 52, Missouri Pacific 60½, Northern Pacific 129¾, Pennsylvania 121¾, Reading 160¾, Rock Island 33, Southern Pacific 119¾, Southern Railway 29, Union Pacific 186, United States Steel 78 and 77¾, United States Steel pfd 118½, Lehigh Valley 178¾.

10—Declining strength was shown by the railroad stocks at the opening of the market today. The metal shares exhibited marked weakness following the cut in prices of steel products. The Supreme Court decision in the American Tobacco Company case caused an advance of 8½ in American Tobacco of 4 points. The preferred stock dropped 1 point. The first sale of the common on the "curb" showed no change from the last transaction Monday. Among the railroad stocks Canadian Pacific gained 2 points, Union Pacific 1¾, St. Paul, Erie first preferred and Northern Pacific 1¼ and Reading 1 point. Amalgamated Copper and United States Steel declined 1 point.

11—Prices broke badly soon after the initial dealings, the market going off under a deluge of selling orders, induced by profit taking sales, fears of further investigation of industrial corporations, and the violent fluctuations in American Tobacco issues. Opening advances were converted in almost all instances into substantial losses. Amalgamated Copper and Westinghouse Electric sold 3 points under Monday's close, United States Steel and Reading 2 and a score or more of other stocks from 1 to 2¼. Large dealing in American Tobacco 4's sent them up from 85¼, Monday's close, to 93½, with a reaction below 90. The 6's broke 7 points to 103. Consolidated Tobacco 4's jumped 5 points to 90. American Snuff preferred gave way 3 points and American Tobacco preferred 3¾. On the curb American Tobacco slumped 50 points to 450.

Noon—The American Tobacco decision and the reduction of prices of steel products combined to upset the stock market this morning and prices fluctuated violently. Following the general rise in London the market here opened with substantial gains in almost all of the prominent stocks, with the exception of United States Steel and Amalgamated Copper. By the time trading was well under way, however, the market began to show the effect of heavy selling. The pressure which was directed particularly against United States Steel, quickly resulted in a general set back. The most spectacular losses occurred on the "curb" where American Tobacco dropped 75 points during the morning to 425. United States Steel dropped to 5 points below Monday's close. Bonds were easy. Money on call steady at 2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½ to 4 per cent. Exchanges $358,257,600; balances $15,443,052.

ASKS FOR A PERSONAL VISIT.

Rhode Island Coal Company Offers to Show the School Committee Quality of Its Product.

In relation to the bid for supplying 600 tons of coal for the various school buildings in this city, the Rhode Island Coal Company has sent to the chairman of the School Committee the following letter, asking that it be read at the first meeting of the committee:

Dear Sir: We read with much interest in one of the Newport daily papers your advertisement calling for a bid on the supplying of some 600 tons of coal for your various school buildings.

As you probably understand, we are engaged in the mining and preparation of coal within a few miles of your city. We cannot close our eyes to the fact that a great many people have spoken discreditably of our enterprise, nor to the fact that recently a test was made of our coal in your city which proved to be very unsatisfactory. Notwithstanding all this, detrimental as it may appear to our interests, we are satisfied, on the one hand, that the criticisms are unmerited; and, on the other hand, that the test referred to was not properly handled, or the results would have been in our favor. We ask you to believe this, because we expect, if granted the privilege, to prove to your satisfaction that our statements are correct.

We have inferred by your advertisement that you are desirous of securing a most satisfactory fuel at a minimum cost, thereby studying the interests of your constituents, the taxpayers; and it is not necessary for us to state that no one can compete with us when it comes to price. We fully understand that the only question which could arise in your mind in awarding us the contract would be whether or not the fact is as we represent it. With that in mind, I am going to presume that every member of your honorable board is fair-minded and open to conviction, and I hereby extend to you and to each and every member of your board an invitation to call at our plant here on any day in the near future which may be agreeable to you, and be our guests for the day.

We will show you Rhode Island coal burning under our boilers, in our locomotive, in the blacksmith forges and in domestic ranges and will let you be the judge as to its merits. We will show to you testimonials and orders from people, hotels and others throughout New England, and will then show you that we have great quantities of coal on our property which it will take a few generations to mine. We believe that your honorable body will not be blinded by any gossip you may encounter on the street based on hearsay knowledge, but that you will hold your judgment in reserve and let it be dictated by what you see after your investigation; then, if you feel convinced, as I know you will, that our coal is all that we represent it, that you will consider our proposition for your winter's supply. Our figures will be submitted upon the basis that if the fuel does not give satisfactory results in heaters or ranges of any character which you may be using we will remove it at our cost. This must certainly appeal to you as being a fair proposition.

We want the people of New England to thoroughly understand that they have at their own doorsteps a good a quality of anthracite coal as Pennsylvania ever produced and that they can secure it less the enormous freight charges which now make the cost of Pennsylvania coal so prohibitive. With this in view, we are exceedingly anxious to have you visit our plant, make a thorough examination and be as critical as you will.

It will be considered by us a courtesy if you will have this letter read at your first meeting, some action taken upon it and instruct your secretary to notify me accordingly.

Yours very respectfully,
Rhode Island Coal Co.

NAVAL PARADE THE FEATURE.

Army and Local Organizations Also Honor the Civil War Veterans.

Varied Exercises of Memorial Day Carried Out in Customary Form by the Grand Army.

Newport had another notable Memorial day Tuesday, the presence of the troops from Fort Adams, the apprentice seaman battalion from the Naval Training Station and the naval brigades from battleships Connecticut and Michigan, with the local organizations, forming an escort to the veterans of the Civil war which can scarcely be equalled in a city of the size of Newport.

It was a day of uncertainty regarding the weather, with several smart showers in the afternoon, but when the procession started the clouds had dispersed, the sun was shining bright and warm and better weather one could not desire. It was a pleasing feature of the day's weather that the members of the Grand Army were especially favored. In the morning, when they were performing their most sacred duty of the day, decorating the graves of their comrades in the cemeteries, the clouds shielded the rays of the sun and made their task a more agreeable one. The showers in the afternoon came when they were in the church, holding their memorial exercises, and they did not suffer in the least from the rain. The rain, too, was opportune, as it was sufficient to lay the dust and made the march for the soldiers and sailors more pleasant.

The Grand Army also was fortunate in having among its guests Colonel William H. Collin, commanding officer of the Artillery District of Narragansett, Rear Admiral Seaton Schroeder, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, Captains W. R. Rush and N. R. Usher of battleships Connecticut and Michigan, the mayor and aldermen of the city, Postmaster Burlingame, members of the General Assembly and a large representation of the local clergymen.

The Busy Veterans.

It was a full day for the Grand Army. In the early morning they went to the cemeteries and placed flowers on the graves of their dead comrades, the Spanish War Veterans holding their memorial service in the Braman cemetery. Later the Grand Army and Spanish veterans escorted the Women's Relief Corps to the Government Landing where the ceremony of strewing the water with flowers was carried out. With a brief rest at noon for dinner, the Grand Army met at its hall, and under the special escort of the Newport Artillery marched to the Soldiers and Sailors' enclosure on Broadway, where brief memorial services were held and flowers were placed about the monument. Then they went into the Presbyterian Church for the public exercises.

At the conclusion of these they entered carriages to take their place in the line for the parade. In the cemetery they held their final services at the Soldiers and Sailors' plot and as a fitting closing to their day's work marched to the Soldiers and Sailors monument and saluted the flag as it was raised from half to full staff. Then they were ready for the collation, served in Grand Army hall by the Women's Relief Corps. After an hour of social intercourse the members of the post went to their homes, tired but happy in having once more paid to their dead comrades a fitting tribute, and especially happy that the younger generation had joined heartily and sincerely in this tribute.

The Thinning Ranks.

There was another evidence this year that the ranks of the veterans are thinning and the graves of the dead more numerous, thus adding proportionately to the labors of those who remain. The time was when the graves were few and the comrades many, and the graves were decorated. After the exercises in the cemetery. That was years since and of late the decorating has taken place in the morning. Yearly the number of graves has increased and yearly the burden of tramping through the cemetery with increasing numbers of plants to put on these graves has become more nearly a physical impossibility.

This year it was arranged to have wagons to carry the plants, and as these wagons passed through the streets of the cities of the dead the distribution was greatly aided and the aged veterans were able to do practically all the work with little assistance from the Spanish War Veterans or the Sons of Veterans.

The Spanish War Service.

While members of the Grand Army of the Republic went direct to this work the United Spanish War Veterans first held their Memorial Day service, that this might not conflict with the program of the day as arranged by their older comrades. Camp Thomas, with a bugler from the Training Station, marched to the naval plot in the Braman cemetery and over the grave of Comrade Lundquest, carpenter, U. S. N., held their service. The ritualistic work was by Camp Commander Buenzle and Chaplain Larson, followed by the strewing of flowers on the grave and the sounding of taps by the bugler. Then followed the participation in the task of decorating the graves of the other dead. Quite a gathering of citizens was present at the exercises.

The graves decorated, the Grand Army and Spanish War Veterans assembled and marched to the hall of the former, to render an escort to the Women's Relief for the strewing of flowers on the waters. It was not expected that this escort duty would be performed this year, but at a late hour the women expressed the desire and were accommodated.

The Strewing of the Waters.

Following the decorating of the graves the Grand Army and Spanish War Veterans marched to Grand Army hall and met the members of the Women's Relief Corps, forming an escort to the Government Landing for the strewing of the waters, a specially interesting and appropriate ceremony in honor of the dead of the sea. The line was headed by drum and fife, with large delegations from Lawton-Warren Post and Rear Admiral Charles M. Thomas Camp, a number of children bearing American flags and the members of the corps. There was a large crowd at the landing; too many, in fact, to see or even hear the ceremony, which took place on the Training Station float. Here were gathered the Women's Relief Corps, the Grand Army, Spanish War Veterans and the children.

The ceremony consisted of prayer by Rev. G. A. Hulbert, appropriate ritual by the officers of the corps, Mrs. Francis M. Sisson conducting this in place of Mrs. Clara L. Lake, who was prevented from attending by illness; the singing of "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." Then several wreaths were placed on the water, "taps" was sounded by Mr. Frank McCloskey, and the benediction by the chaplain concluded the exercises.

At the Monument and in the Church.

In the early afternoon the Grand Army met at its hall, and escorted by the Newport Artillery marched to the Soldiers and Sailors' monument on Broadway, where Commander William S. Bailey conducted a brief memorial service and flowers were placed about the monument. Then the veterans marched into the church, where a large audience had already assembled for the public exercises, over which Post Commander William S. Bailey presided. They began with an organ voluntary by Mr. H. Wood Thompson, followed by the American Hymn by the choir, under the direction of Comrade George A. Pritchard, made up as follows:

Mrs. Walter Meade, Miss Alice Donovan, Miss Hazard Ward, Miss Isabella O'Sullivan—sopranos.

Mrs. Sarah Bailey King, Mrs. Frank S. Hale, Mrs. John T. Peckham, Mrs. George E. Bailey—altos.

George A. Pritchard, Frank W. King, Frederick Edney, Albert C. Young—tenors.

William S. Slocum, Henry Kelly, Gustave H. Bloom, Melzar Basford—bases.

Rev. G. A. Hulbert, chaplain of the day, offered prayer, which was followed by a selection, "Praise ye the Father," by the choir; the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Mr. Pritchard, and another selection, "To Thee, O Country," by the choir. Then Past Commander Charles H. Clarke read the Roll of Honor, a complete list of veterans of the war who have died or been buried in Newport during the past year, as follows.

The Dead of the Year.

Captain Lawrence Rhoades, Company L, Fourth Massachusetts volunteers.

Rear Admiral Edmund O. Matthews, U. S. N.

Charles Fairchild, assistant paymaster, U. S. N.

Colonel John Rogers, First Rhode Island cavalry.

George A. Brown, Company D, Twelfth Rhode Island infantry.

John H. Sanborn, Company D, Second New Hampshire infantry.

George E. Houghton, Nims's Massachusetts battery.

The Oration.

Henry Kelly then sang "The Holy City," the choir rendered "Jerusalem, Jerusalem," and the oration was delivered by Mr. Herbert W. Lull, superintendent of public schools. The oration was a scholarly and well oration, a scholarly and well than usual held the close attention of his hearers, is printed elsewhere in The News. The exercises were concluded with the singing of "America."

CITY LEAGUE WINNERS.

Father Mathew, Young Men's Christian Association and Training Station.

Rogers High Beaten at East Greenwich in Spite of a Big Batting Rally.

Three base ball games were played in the City League series Tuesday, Father Mathew beating Galahad in the morning and Young Men's Christian Association defeating Fort Adams and the Trojans the Training Station in the afternoon. The morning was a rather one-sided contest, but the two games in the afternoon were won by one run each and the excitement was consequently at fever heat at times. It was a surprise to see the Young Men's Christian Association win from Fort Adams, and the Training Station was beaten after the game seemed won. The two illustrated the uncertainty of base ball.

In the morning many of the Father Mathew members were on hand to encourage their team and things ran along in an orderly manner. There was no running on the field and nothing to mar the enjoyment of those who came to see the play. In the afternoon a policeman was present to keep the field clear and the umpires saw that those who had no business on the players' benches did not sit there. There was also an enforcement of some ideas which were presented at a meeting of the league officials Monday night and the results were satisfactory to the spectators.

The first game had few to see it, as it started before the procession had passed. The second had a good attendance, but not so large as the play warranted on a holiday. Many seem to think these games do not mean much, but the second afternoon game was a good example of what base ball should be, with its ups and downs, and its finale in the last half of the ninth inning, with darkness creeping over the field and the winning run driven home with two out and Coffey doing his best pitching.

The morning game was rather uninteresting, because the Tabs were so superior to the Galahads, who, however, seemed to be on the upward move, though they still have a long way to go. Steady practice which the team has been taking seems to have improved the work. Jumell was touched up rather lively and the Galahads did some slitting off Burns, but the latter had the better support and the Tabs did the better playing. The umpiring was at times a trifle off and Galahad had the short end of it. The Tabs appeared in their new uniform and made a good appearance on the field. It is of grey with black trimmings and "F. M." on the breast, and they introduced the new uniforms to a victory. The score:

The first game in the afternoon was played before a gathering much smaller than that of the morning. The bleachers were even barer than the grand stand. It looked like a walkover for Fort Adams. Young Dillon, who went in to pitch, had split the index finger of his pitching hand in practice in the morning and had poor control, but he did well for three innings. Then Donovan went in. He was still sore from pitching Saturday, but threw a great bluff and escaped for four innings. The explosion took place in the eighth. The soldiers were
